—President Harding

VOL. 74. NO. 163.

MRS. ASQUITH THINKS HARDING HAS A BIG HEAD

"It's as Big as Five of Us, and He Is So Truthful," She Says After Visit to White House.

HE GIVES HER COPY OF CONFERENCE SPEECH

She Changes Subject When Asked if They Talked About the League of Nations.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1922.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Margot Asquith thinks President Harding has a "big head." She told the correspondent that after spending 20 minutes with the nation's chief executive.

"Why, he has a head almost as big as five of us," she said with partisan exaggeration—"and he is so truthful."

The wife of a former Premier of Great Britain doesn't always break the monotony of engagements at the White House and while Mrs. Asquith is in the United States on a lecture tour, the proceeds of which are divided between her and American benefactors, she is not without her share of the executive official's down the photographs and newspaper men to the portals of Mr.
Harding's room.

As Mrs. Asquith emerged with outstretched arms and an outburst of exclamations, the reporters gathered about to inquire what was talked about.

"Talked about everything,"
she said with a slight flourish, as she leaned against the corridor walls. And before another question could be popped at her she was lingering her fur neckpiece uncomfortably and remarking upon the "heat of the room."

"You Americans are so fairly thrill in hot air," she said. "Did you say 'on' or 'off'?" asked one of the group with pencil in hand.

But Mrs. Asquith parried with a flow of descriptive adjectives about her visit with the President, how wonderful it was.

"And the President gave me his original copy of the speech he delivered at the Arms Conference—where, by the way, our Mr. Balfour did marvelously," and here she exhibited the printed copy of the speech, which she had signed with Mr. Harding's own handwriting and thrust it back into her muff for safeguarding.

"Wasn't that perfectly sweet of him?" she exclaimed, as she submitted to more questions from the reporters.

"What did you talk about?"
"Well, international politics and such things."

Changes Subject From League.
"Did you talk about the League of Nations?"

There was a pause. Her husband is one of the leaders in the pro-League movement in Europe.
"Not exactly, but, er—" she hesitated to reply.

"Was it the association of nations?" Interrupted one of the reporters—"or the arms conference?"

POLICE DOGS TO BE USED IN HUNT FOR MOONSHINERS

Haynes Gives Consent for One in Colorado and Will Try Them in the South.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Police dogs are to be used in Prohibition Commissioner Haynes' fight against moonshiners. He gave Director Emmett C. McClenahan of Colorado permission to train and use a German man-hunting dog after the illicit liquor makers of his State.

"With such a dog," said McClenahan,
"stills may be scented half a mile away and will not only lead to capture but will serve to secure search warrants."

The Colorado dry officers have captured 188 stills and 50,000 gallons of mash, composed of sugar, compressed yeast and water, within the last few weeks.

"It takes only nine days to make moonshine out of the necessary ingredients, and the cost is only 87 cents a gallon," declared McClenahan.
"A police dog can smell the mixture a half mile or farther."

Haynes is going to try the police dog on some of the old-time moonshiners of the mountains of the South.

FINNISH MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR IS ASSASSINATED

Slayer Fires Three Shots and Is Declared to Be Demented After Capture by Police.

HELSINKI, Finland, Feb. 14.— M. Riiavuori, Finnish Minister of the Interior, was shot three times as he was alighting from his motor car outside his residence here today.
He died while being taken to a hospital. The alleged assassin, Ernest Randerholt, was arrested. The authorities declare he is demented.

MOUNT RAINIER CLIMBED FIRST TIME UNDER WINTER CONDITIONS

Mountaineers and Cameraman
Leave Their Names in a Bottle
Upon the Summit.

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 14.—Mount Rainier was climbed under midwinter conditions for the first time in its history last night by Jan and Jacques Landry and Jacques Ber-gues, mountaineers, and Charles R.
Perriman, a motion picture camera operator. They left on their final dash from Anvil Rock, their base, 10,000 feet high, at 4 p. m. yesterday, returning 15 1/2 hours later.
They left their names in a bottle on the summit.

House Unlocked Two Years Robbed.

John H. Dandel, 3956 Blaine avenue, reported to Policeman Cleary last night that in his absence someone had robbed his home, taking $27. The policeman could find no marks of forcible entrance and asked Dandel if he suspected how the burglar had gained an entrance. "Just walked in, I guess," Dandel replied.
"I've lived here two years and never locked a door or window."

Post-Dispatch New Wireless Station Gets Test Tonight

Entire First Act of Musical Show at American Theater to Be Sent Broadcast by Radio—Address by Prof. Upson.

The Post-Dispatch, which was the first newspaper in its territory to make use of wireless in the collection of news, has installed in its building a radio transmission and receiving apparatus. The purpose of this wireless station, of course, is to provide, as the science of radio develops, an auxiliary method of receiving news from near or remote points should the usual channels of communication—telephone and telephone—be interrupted by fire, storm or flood or any other cause.

The first use of radio, in this section of the country, as a means of collecting news, was demonstrated last summer during the National Amateur Golf Tournament at the St. Louis Country Club. All through the days of match play, the leading contestants were followed from hole to hole by Post-Dispatch reporters with portable radiophone set. As each stage of the match was completed a detailed account was sent by wireless to the St. Louis Country Club, where the most powerful radiophone transmitted the news to the receiving set in the sport department of the Post-Dispatch.

The radio set now installed in the Post-Dispatch building will be supplemented, as soon as it can be manufactured, by a much more powerful apparatus—one with a transmitting range, under ideal conditions, of a thousand miles in any direction from St. Louis. The receiving station will be capable of picking up messages

CEMENT FINISHERS ACCEPT 25 CENTS
AN HOUR WAGE CUT

Two-Year Contract, Effective March 1, Fixing Pay of Foreman at $1.12 1/2, Finishers $1, Signed.

190 MEMBERS OF
THE ORGANIZATION

Action Expected to Result in Immediate Letting of Contracts for Sidewalks and Other Concrete Work.

Following the example of the union painters, decorators and paper hangers, who recently accepted a voluntary reduction of 20 per cent in wages in order to promote a large building program that is being held up by high costs, the Cement Finishers' Union, Local No. 527, has agreed to sign a two-year contract at a reduction in wages of 25 cents an hour, from $1.37 1/2 for foremen and $1.25 for finishers, to $1.12 1/2 and $1.00, respectively. There are 190 members of the organization.

The contract was made with the Executive Committee of the Cement Contractors' Association, which agreed that only union men should be employed. The new wage is to become effective March 1 and will continue in force until April 1, 1924. This contract will supersede the existing agreement, which was to have expired April 1.

A. D. Gates, president of the A.
D. Gates Construction Co., who was chairman of the contractors' committee, said the lower wage scale should result in the letting of many contracts for grandiose sidewalk and other concrete construction.

The Cement Finishers' Union is affiliated with the Building Trades Council and was one of the organizations that voted against the proposed 20 per cent wage reduction recently proposed in referendum vote among unions by the Master Builders' Association. Fred W. Schultz, business agent of the union, said the concrete finishers believed that since the painters, decorators and paper-hangers had reduced wages, they had come to believe that other crafts in the building trades would have to do likewise in order to end the existing agitation against building at present wages before a building program of any consequence could be started.

It has been shown in surveys of the Post-Dispatch and Director of Public Welfare Council that building aggregating $15,000,000 to $20,000-000 is being held in abeyance by high costs, chiefly of labor and material, and prospective builders have

Chicago's Ponzi, Who Is Accused

RAYMOND J. BISCHOFF.

HOST TAKES A NAP AND GUESTS TAKE FURNITURE

Thomas Morrissey Finds It Was a Regular Bunch of Cut-Ups
He Entertained Last Night.

Thomas Morrissey, 35 years old, of 1811A Elliot avenue, doesn't wish his wife any bad luck, but if some harmless thing would happen to destroy her return from the country a day or so it would give him a chance to get the house straightened up and her home-coming would be more pleasant, especially for him.
Morrissey had some friends in last night. The refreshments made regular cut-ups of them, and they turned the house topsy-turvy and carried the chaffinon away. Their idea was that when Mrs. Morrissey came home tonight, she would find the house in a state of confusion, which would be highly diverting to her. Morrissey hopes he is not in a sense of humor, but he hopes that if the Mrs. finds the house looking like it does now, it will not be a laughing matter for him.

Feels Nap Was a Blunder.

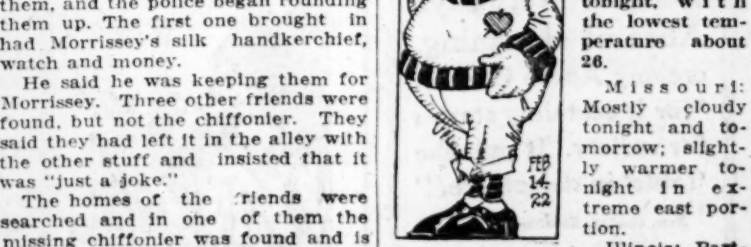

There were about ten at the party.
Morrissey thinks, but he doesn't guarantee the count. Some time last night or early this morning, he is not sure which, he went to sleep in a chair without bowing his guests out. He feels now that this was a blunder. When he awoke this morning his friends were gone.
So were a lot of the household things and what remained had been wonderfully and fearfully jacked. The pictures on the walls were upside down, the gas fixtures were twisted like pretzels, the gas stove had been disconnected, the furniture was in disarray and a few holes had been poked in the windows.

He called in a policeman and they went to the Dayton Street Station and told the Captain about it. Morrissey said the chaffinon, Morrissey said the chaffinon mostly and they had a jolly good sociable time and he couldn't understand why they should have "put the place on the blink" that way. And his wife complained, as nearly as he could recall them, and the police began rounding them up. The first one brought in had Morrissey's silk handkerchief, watch and money.

He said he was keeping them for Morrissey. Three other friends were found, but not the chaffinon. They said they had left it in the alley with the other stuff and Morrissey is working hard to get the place looking like something before Mrs. Morrissey comes. The four friends are locked up.

BISCHOFF CHARGED WITH OPERATING A CONFIDENCE GAME

Many Say Chicago Stockyards Speculator Obtained Money From Them on False Pretenses.

WARRANTS FOR CLERK AND BROTHER-IN-LAW

Two Other Concerns Believed to Be $1,500,000
Short in Alleged Get-Rich-Quick Swindle Schemes.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—While Raymond Bischoff, speculator, whose transactions with residents of the stockyards district were said to have netted him millions, was being examined today by a referee in bankruptcy appointed by Judge K. M.
Landis, police warrants charging operation of a confidence game were issued for him, for his brother-in-law, E. W. Geer, and his clerk, Joseph Florek.

The warrants were issued at the request of a dozen persons who said Bischoff had obtained money from them under false pretenses.

Sidney Eastman, bankruptcy referee, opened his hearing by questioning a number of Bischoff's customers in the get-rich-quick schemes he is alleged to have promoted, and at the same time arrangements were being made to open several bank savings deposit vaults to find out what assets the 35-year-old speculator has to meet his $5,000,000 or more liabilities.

Hundreds of persons flocked to the office of Leslie Harrington of the American Novaculite Co. to tell of their dealings with him. Harrington, who has disappeared, was said to have obtained more than $1,000-000 in allegedly illegitimate transactions.

At the same time Judge K. M.
Landis appointed a receiver for the Western Land Operators' Co. Judge Desmond Taylor murder mystery is willing today to declare that any actual progress had been made toward its solution. The officers are at work and still express determination to do their best to find the slayer of the film director, but found themselves confronted with "too many wild tips," they say, and too few genuine clues. Many of these "tips" live through one edition of a newspaper—and disappear.

The detectives of the Police Department still declare their belief that the case never will be cleared up until Edward F. Sands, the missing former butler-secretary to Taylor, has been discovered. And the Sheriff's deputies are still firm in their contention that Sands had nothing to do with the case.

The air is filled with rumors of "mystery men," "mystery women,"
"mystery witnesses," "drug peddlers," "jealousy motives" and "revenge theories," but back of them all the fact that Sands had not been found; that the murderer has not been arrested, and that the case is unsolved.

The investigation has reached a stage which is described by officials directing the inquiry as "waiting for the unexpected."

Mabel Norman, screen actress, last known person to see Taylor alive, said today that the letters she had written the director, which have been in the possession of the District Attorney, have been returned to her. Miss Norman declared the contents of the letters were only trivial and unimportant.

A Sea Captain's Story.
A statement that he met two armed tramps at Lathrop Junction, near Tracy, Cal., last December and they notified him that they had been hired to go to Los Angeles and kill a motion picture director, by the name of Taylor, was made to Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson today by a man giving the name of Charles Carson, who said he was a sea captain sailing out of the port of San Francisco. Matheson is inclined to doubt his story.

Carson said he knew one of the tramps, whom he called Bill Burns.
Burns, he said, was wearing a cartridge belt and holster containing a loaded pistol. Later he saw Burns and his companion and another man leave in a railroad car in the direction of Los Angeles.

Carson said he was released from a Santa Clara (Cal.) hospital a week ago and did not know of the murder of William Desmond Taylor until four days ago. Fear of Burns, he said, kept him away from the police until today.

Three Believed to Be Connected.
The raid on the officers of the Western Land Operators' Co. was made last night upon the complaint of Los Angeles.

HARRINGTON OPPOSES TAX
FOR BONUS; TO WRITE
VIEWS TO CONGRESSWhite House Statement
Gives Indication President Doubts if It Would Be Possible to Raise Money Necessary Without Disturbance Financial Tranquillity.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—President Harding is unalterably opposed to the enactment of the special tax suggested to finance the soldier bonus or to the return to taxes which have been repealed, it was stated officially today at the White House.
It also was indicated that the executive was very much in doubt if it would be possible to raise the required sum to finance the cash feature of the bonus under an issue of bonds without appreciably advancing interest rates and destroying the financial tranquility which is sought.

To Announce Policy in Letter.
The President, it was said, was disposed to be favorable to the bonus but his attitude had to be that of finding sane and sensible conditions for the fulfillment of promises made on one hand without disturbing the desired return to financial stability.
It was stated that Mr. Harding's attitude on the bonus question would be made clear to Congress in a communication expected to be sent to the Senate and House subcommittees dealing with the bonus subject.
Whether this letter will go forward today was not disclosed.

The position of the President was explained at the White House while the Senate was in the midst of a discussion of the bonus question and while Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, was charging that Republican leaders in Congress had put the whole bonus matter up to the President.

PRICE 2 CENTS

BUSINESS EARNING NEW ETHICS, SAYS "PLUS" WITNESS

Declares Before Trade Commission He Is Entitled to Location Advantage in Steel Price.

DEFENSE CORPORATION WILL PUT FORWARD

Since Pittsburgh Controls Supply, It Will Be Contended, It Should Also Control the Price.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 14.—Business ethics and the economies of price-fixing in the steel industry were mixed with the Federal Trade Commission's hearings on the Pittsburgh plus system yesterday, but served to bring out one of the fundamental points involved in the commission's entire investigation into the complaint of western steel consumers that Pittsburgh plus is discrimination.

Two weeks of testimony have been heard as to the charge that the usual practice of the steel mills has been to charge a more or less uniform price at Pittsburgh and add the freight rate to the buyer's plant, no matter where the steel is shipped from. Yesterday more witnesses testified to the same effect, among them being Edward B. Bartlett of the Milwaukee Stamping Co., manufacturers of various metal parts.

"With Pittsburgh plus we can compete with Eastern factories only by taking a loss and making it up on other customers," Bartlett said.

Business Practices Discussed.

Then began an exposition of business practices in which Bartlett declared that business men today are learning a new code of ethics. Under this code, he said, his company and his customers were entitled to the advantage of geographical location.

"If steel can be produced in Chicago as cheaply or more cheaply, as we are told, than in Pittsburgh, there is no reason why we should not have the advantage of that location," the witness continued.

W. W. Corlett, general solicitor for the United States Steel Corporation, respondents in the investigation, inquired if the Steel Corporation didn't have the right to get the market price any place in the world.

"It has a right to get a fair margin of profit over a period of years," replied Bartlett. "If it gets more, it is taking advantage of an economic condition that will force the price down in time."

Bartlett's testimony stated the assumption of the commission's entire list of witnesses was that even more they were handicapped by paying an amount equivalent to the Pittsburgh freight rate on steel purchases instead of the actual freight from the point of shipment.

What Corporation Will Contend.

Later in the hearings the corporation will present its reply to the present testimony. From where it is located, declaring that, since Pittsburgh controls the supply, it also should control the price. According to the corporation's presentation, its mills in the Chicago district were placed there to offer quicker delivery to the Western market.

Their output is never sufficient to meet the demand, the corporation will submit, and the deficit must be filled from the Pittsburgh surplus.

Continued evidence of the operation of Pittsburgh plus was offered by Charles Freeman for 22 years president of the Freeman Mfg. Co. of Racine, Wis. He testified that his company had always bought on Pittsburgh base, a disadvantage, prior to six months ago, since when it has been possible to buy on a Chicago base. He testified that his company had been prevented from competing in the West, due to the freight differential.

A judgment by default for $10,000 was given yesterday by Circuit Judge Taylor against Rabbi Samuel Probe, 4256 Page boulevard, in favor of Mrs. Robert Alper, 4245W Evans avenue, on account of the death of their son, Israel, four weeks old, who died to six months ago, since when it has been possible to buy on a Chicago base. He testified that his company had been prevented from competing in the West, due to the freight differential.

OPPOSITION TO BONUS AS EXPRESSED BY BORAH AND WOMAN MEMBER OF HOUSE

Proposed Schedule Would Cost 75 Billions and Might Embarrass the Government, Idaho Senator Declares.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The soldiers' bonus question was brought before the Senate yesterday by Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, who suggested that request for compensation for former service men who are not impaired physically nor mentally, as a result of their war service, might embarrass the Government in taking care of the wounded and disabled.

The Idaho Senator said that $75,000,000,000 was a conservative estimate of what it would cost the Government to pay the bonus to all disabled men before the Government's obligations to them should be entirely discharged. He asserted that the Government already had appropriated $1,581,643,000 during the last five years for the disabled service men and said their ranks were growing constantly.

"Billion a Year Soon,"

"This is only the beginning," said Borah. "This amount must continue to grow very rapidly in the next 30 years. In my opinion, it will be a matter of only 10 years before we are appropriating $1,500,000,000 annually for the necessities of the disabled men. Day by day, their number is increasing."

In support of his estimate that care of the wounded men would finally cost around $75,000,000,000, Senator Borah cited how Civil War pension obligations had grown. He said also that some experts have estimated that the care of the disabled men would cost as high as $100,000,000,000.

"Even with the large appropriations we are now making for the aid of the disabled soldiers, we are not doing nearly enough to do for them," Senator Borah declared.

The Taxpayer's Position.

Senator Borah said that the financial plight of the Government and of the taxpayer was becoming more and more serious. He said that last July, when President Harding said the Government could not undertake the bonus legislation.

"Have taxes been reduced to any substantial extent?" he asked. "Are we in any better condition to take care of the disabled soldiers?"

Senator Borah replied that he would not regard $2 a day payable in five years as compensation to men who risked their lives in the war.

"I would infinitely rather call it a bonus or gratuity, until the soldier receives more than the charwoman on the Capitol steps," said Senator Borah.

Mellon's Objections.

"Secretary Mellon's objections to the bonus last year are even more potent now," Borah continued.

"We will have a deficit of $500,000,000 or more," said Senator Borah. "It is a very serious thing when the people are hearing about all they can in the way of tax burdens to advise them that the worst is not here yet, that we must increase taxes to pay the bonus. There is no basis to compare and fix financial standards, he asserted."

Reference to Gratuity.

Senator Borah reiterated that he regarded the bonus as a gratuity.

"And I think the soldier himself, when he comes to reflect on it, will prefer to feel it a gratuity, rather than to place a money value on his service," said Borah. "Terming it a gratuity, it is more complimentary to the soldier, rather than to say that we have placed 'a dollar and cents value on his service.'"

Senator Borah said many other persons had aided their country in the war and now were in hard circumstances.

Senator Jones, who presented the American Legion argument that men in the shipyards and other stay-at-homes had been safe and received larger money rewards, declared that all Americans assisted in winning the war and civilians were just as necessary to its winning as the soldier. There is no basis to compare and fix financial standards, he asserted.

morrow. That is the only difference. But it is a difference that appeals mightily to the panic-stricken legislators who are afraid not to pass a bonus bill and equally afraid to finance it with direct taxes.

They seek an indirect method that will deceive the taxpayer into thinking his tax bill has not been raised. The immediate end will be served if he stays deceived till after the elections.

Treasury Report Shows Talk of Bonus Sends Liberty Bonds Down.

Review of the Liberty bond market during January, as made public today by the Treasury Department, discloses how the value of these securities slumped at the one serious consideration was given to the soldier bonus legislation.

Treasury experts recently declared that "the talk of a soldier bonus would decrease Liberty bonds by two points, or $2 on each $100 of bonds. An average decline of $2 on each $100 of bonds meant a loss in value for holders of Liberties of more than $204,000,000."

The Treasury report today shows that Liberty bonds increased in value from Jan. 1 to Jan. 13, as a result of the Liberty bond market and suffered daily losses until the close of the month.

NATIONAL TAXATION DISCUSSED BY REED

Senator Says Citizens Should See That Waste of Public Money Is Stopped.

United States Senator Reed, speaking this afternoon at a luncheon of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange and the Kiwanis Club at the Planters Hotel, said that burdensome taxes were due very largely to waste in the expenditure of public funds, and that the activities of the citizens of the country should be directed toward a demand that waste be stopped.

"There is no way to escape carrying an enormous burden of taxation as long as we shall live," the Senator said. "We might as well face the fact, and we also might as well realize that an equitable system of taxation, one which falls upon the citizens in proportion to their ability to pay, never has been devised."

He expressed himself in favor of a great variety of taxes.

He criticized the spirit which he said had engendered the United States was a country of inextinguishable wealth and "should act as wet nurse for the remainder of the world." He expressed sympathy with Russia and with Poland and the starving peoples, but said that if the Polish army had not invaded Russia the men would have been at home feeling the weight of the tax burden and the United States would not have been called upon for $57,000,000.

Discussing the foreign war loans, he insisted that the United States should demand the payment of the loans and the meeting of the interest at the earliest possible time.

"I cannot understand why the Secretary of the Treasury has been fighting ever since he took office for the passage of a bill giving to him complete and sole authority to handle the foreign debt matter as he saw fit," he said. "There is a provision in the bill to obtain a cancellation of these debts."

He closed with a denunciation of the government policy of creating a bureau to handle every manner of public function, and to "regulate everything under the sun," declaring that to be inefficient and wasteful.

LIQUOR CHARGE NOLLE PROSSED

Miss Frank Refuses to Prosecute on "Stool Pigeon" Evidence.

A case against Meyer Goldberg, grocer, 1900 Carr street, charged with selling whisky, was nolle prossed by Assistant District Attorney Lena Frank today because a "stool pigeon" had been used in getting the evidence.

Gus Smith, a negro, 17 years old, 1109 North Seventh street, testified that Sgt. Caudle of the Fourth Police District gave him $1 and sent him into Goldberg's place, where he bought a pint of whisky for 50 cents and kept the change. Miss Frank held that the State did not have to stoop to such methods to obtain evidence. Another case, where the evidence was obtained in the same way, was nolle prossed a few days ago.

FEDERAL COAL BOARD IS PROPOSED IN BILL

Kenyon Introduces Measure for Tribunal of Nine to Aid in Settling Labor Controversies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Establishment of a Federal tribunal and code of laws for regulation of the coal mining industry was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, which investigated the recent West Virginia coal field disorders.

The bill follows the line of Mr. Kenyon's recent report on the West Virginia situation, and probably will be the last before he retires from the Senate to go on the Federal bench.

The bill would create a "national coal mining board," and provide statutory representatives for both labor and capital in the coal industry.

Decrees of the board would be enforced by public opinion and their violation would not be punishable.

The board would be composed of nine members, three each representing the employing and the working public. All would be appointed by the President, subject to Senate confirmation.

The labor group would be selected from names presented by the United Mine Workers of America. Employer nominations would be made by the National Coal Association and the Anthracite Operators Association.

Under the bill, employers and employees would be required to submit controversies to the board.

Decisions of the board would require assent of a majority.

The board members would receive annual salaries of $10,000.

The code would provide for collective bargaining, human standards in fixing wages and working conditions, adequate return for invested capital, a six-day standard working week on an eight-hour basis, and would prohibit employment of women or children under 16 years old. Other provisions would prohibit interference with union men or with union men seeking peacefully to organize.

The coal mining "code" detailed in the bill included "original" and "first" would declare coal to be "a public necessity and in its production and distribution the public interest is predominant."

The code would provide for collective bargaining, human standards in fixing wages and working conditions, adequate return for invested capital, a six-day standard working week on an eight-hour basis, and would prohibit employment of women or children under 16 years old. Other provisions would prohibit interference with union men or with union men seeking peacefully to organize.

Kenyon Introduces Measure for Tribunal of Nine to Aid in Settling Labor Controversies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Establishment of a Federal tribunal and code of laws for regulation of the coal mining industry was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Kenyon, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, which investigated the recent West Virginia coal field disorders.

The bill follows the line of Mr. Kenyon's recent report on the West Virginia situation, and probably will be the last before he retires from the Senate to go on the Federal bench.

The bill would create a "national coal mining board," and provide statutory representatives for both labor and capital in the coal industry.

Decrees of the board would be enforced by public opinion and their violation would not be punishable.

The board would be composed of nine members, three each representing the employing and the working public. All would be appointed by the President, subject to Senate confirmation.

The labor group would be selected from names presented by the United Mine Workers of America. Employer nominations would be made by the National Coal Association and the Anthracite Operators Association.

Under the bill, employers and employees would be required to submit controversies to the board.

Decisions of the board would require assent of a majority.

The board members would receive annual salaries of $10,000.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the blood and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.
It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out, but in many instances, the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.
The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear. It cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of unsightly hairy growths is as follows: Mix a pinch of some powder, talcum or baby powder, with a few drops of the cream and rub it on the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and does not require repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to try it on a small patch of skin first.

JUDGE UNDER FIRE IN OKLAHOMA BANK INQUIRY RESIGNS

Christopher Wires Okmulgee Bar Association Committee His Resignation Has Been Mailed.

NEW GRAND JURY TO BE DRAWN FEB. 27

County Attorney to Present to It Evidence Put Before Jury That Was Discharged by Christopher.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OKMULGEE, Ok., Feb. 14.—The announcement of Judge H. R. Christopher of the Superior Court late yesterday that he would resign brought a sigh of relief to Okmulgee, which has been in high tension since Judge Christopher last Thursday discharged the grand jury shortly before it was expected to return a number of indictments in connection with the failure of the Bank of Commerce.

Judge Christopher's announcement came in a telegram which he sent from Coyle, Ok., to B. J. Dick, chairman of a Citizens' Committee appointed to request his resignation. Christopher said he was mailing his resignation.

Christopher's telegram to Dick suggested: "Sickness delayed return until tomorrow morning."

"H. R. CHRISTOPHER." Steps already have been taken to impanel a new grand jury before which County Attorney James Hepburn intends to present all the evidence that was heard by the other grand jury, which is said to involve Gov. J. B. A. Robertson, former Black Cabinet member, Fred Dennis and a number of officers and directors of the defunct bank.

New Jury Panel Called. Judge Mark L. Bozarth of the Okmulgee County District Court yesterday ordered that a jury panel be drawn from which a new grand jury will be impaneled Feb. 27.

County Attorney Hepburn has received telegrams and letters from all parts of Oklahoma urging him to continue vigorously the prosecution, many of the writers saying that banks throughout the State are suffering from the same brand of official corruption that he is attempting to punish here.

The fact that County Attorney Hepburn is a Republican and the State administration Democratic has caused some comment of political significance, but locally the County Attorney has the practically unanimous support of Democrats as well as Republicans, and in the condemnation of Judge Christopher's action no political lines were drawn.

Inquiry by Bank Examiner. Examination of the affairs of the Bank of Commerce was begun today by Fred Parkinson, State examiner and inspector, and two assistants. Parkinson has the confidence of the people of Okmulgee and his report is expected to go a long way toward establishing responsibility for the failure of the bank.

Attorney-General Short is expected here today to confer with local bankers in regard to a plan for reorganization of the bank or the payment of the depositors.

A committee of five members of the Okmulgee County Bar Association, which yesterday began hearings to determine the culpability of Judge Christopher's action from the standpoint of legal ethics, suspended its work after receipt of the information that the Judge had resigned. Judge Christopher had previously stated that he would return and make a defense of his action before the Bar Committee.

TREATMENT FOR 10,000 LEPERS IN PHILIPPINES

Trees Yielding 10 Tons of Seed
From Which Chaulmoogra Oil Is Made Found.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
MANILA, P. I., Jan. 10.—Lepers of the Philippine Islands are to be cured with the products of their own land, according to Dr. H. L. Cole, organic chemist of the Bureau of Science, who has just returned from an investigation through the southern part of the archipelago, where he found in abundance the Hudnottia tree, which bears the nut from which chaulmoogra oil is obtained. This oil is made into ethylester, which has already been used successfully in the Hawaiian Islands and other places in the cure of leprosy.

Many of these trees were found on the island of Mindanao, and Dr. Cole believes he has discovered enough to yield 10 tons of seeds annually. He has arranged to have the nuts gathered for shipment to Manila, where the oil will be extracted. "Chemically the chaulmoogra oil made from the Philippine seeds is as pure as the oil from India," said Dr. Cole. "It takes one ton of seed to make for 1000 lepers a year. We have a supply large enough to care for 10,000 lepers and we may be able to find a larger supply. In that case we will probably send some of the oil to India, China and other Far East countries which have leprosy."

There are 5000 lepers on the island of Cebu in the Philippine group, several hundred of whom are now receiving the chaulmoogra oil treatment. Governor-General Wood has ordered a large quantity of the medicine.

VOLSTEAD ACT PROVISIONS ARE INCONSISTENT, DECLARES JUDGE

Tacoma Jurist in Federal Court Says Different Conclusions Might Be Reached From Wording.

By the Associated Press.
TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 14.—The Volstead act is inconsistent in its provisions and ambiguous in its wording, according to Judge Edward E. Cushman, in a decision rendered in the United States District Court here yesterday. Judge Cushman's criticism of the prohibition law was made following the argument on a motion to suppress evidence brought by O. B. King, who asked the Government be forbidden to use as evidence against him 60 quarts of whiskey seized in his home by Federal prohibition officers.

Judge Cushman, incidentally, held that the Volstead law clearly provides that the possession of liquor in a private dwelling is not crime, when said liquor is not sold or given away illegally.

"The Volstead act is inconsistent in many of its provisions, and its wording is often ambiguous," said Judge Cushman, after attorneys had argued the case. "Two reasonable persons could reach totally different conclusions from its wording."

COMMERCE SURVEY SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

U. S. Review Indicates Business Progressing Towards Normalcy Despite Reactions.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Despite a further decline of business activity during December and January, there was a continued improvement in "fundamental conditions and a spirit of optimism prevails in practically every industry that augurs well for the future," according to a review of the national economic situation contained in the survey of current business, issued yesterday by the Department of Commerce.
Considerable progress has been made toward normalcy, despite a few recent reactions, says the review. Prices have remained relatively steady for the last six months, it says, and this is considered of "fundamental importance for business recovery." The buying public is gradually coming to realize (says the review) that the "big vertical drop in prices is over." There will probably be further gradual recessions as business is done on a more economical basis and margins are reduced. It adds, but on most commodities, it is explained that these movements will be spread over a relatively long period of time.
Under a preliminary summary for January, the iron and steel industry is shown to be still "without definite trend." Textiles likewise have shown little change.
More activity was apparent in the leather market, although the trade in hides was dull. The boot and shoe industry is more optimistic than in many months, while the automobile industry showed the usual seasonal dullness during the month, the review says. The tire industry, however, was more active.
Grain and livestock showed some depression during the first week in January, but has since shown a gradual improvement and purchase of corn for Russian relief has improved conditions in that market.

NO SPECIAL EXHIBITION BY AURORA TONIGHT, SAYS SCIENTIST

Sun Spots or No Run Spots, the Way Yale Observer Puts It: "Some Sort of Aurora Every Night."
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Aurora's pleasing colors aren't to be exhibited tonight, sun spots or no sun spots, announces Dr. Frank Schlesinger, observer at Yale Observatory. He advises against seeking the Aurora, although dispatches from Miami, Fla., announced that the spots now visible on the sun's face were likely to cause a colorful display overhead.
"The spots are too small," the scientist reported, "and not likely to offer anything striking. It has been shown recently that there is an aurora in the sky every night. With the right instruments, it can be photographed any clear night, but cannot be distinguished by the eye on ordinary nights."

Colombia Elects New President.

Ospina polled 150,000 votes against 100,000 by Herrera. Ospina ran on the Conservative ticket, which had the backing of the authorities now in power, the police, the army and the clergy.

FEDERAL WARRANTS IN GARAVELLI LIQUOR CASE

One of Men Alleged to Have De-frauded Cafe Owner of Whisky Arrested Again.

Leo Cohn, who resides at the Claridge Hotel, was arrested there last evening by a Deputy United States Marshal on warrants charging him jointly with Emerick Weiss, alias Valda, alias Johnson, with conspiracy to violate the Volstead act in transporting without a permit and possessing liquor. He was released on bond.

The Federal warrants followed State indictments against the men on complaint of Joseph Garavelli, owner of a cafe at 1731 De Cuir-ville avenue, that he lost 90 cases of whisky, which cost him $6750 before prohibition days, in a fake raid by men representing themselves as Federal officers.

Wanted Liquor Moved.

Garavelli's story, in substance, was that he had been residing above his saloon and that the liquor was on the third floor, above his apartment. He had taken another apartment, at 5630 Pershing avenue, and was thinking of removing the liquor there. One night, he related, Cohn, with whom he was acquainted, in-duced Weiss as "Mr. Johnson," a real estate dealer, and the conversation that followed drifted to liquor and a remark by Garavelli that he would like to move his stock. He said Cohn and Weiss volunteered to assist him and that he offered them $100 to move it. On the night of Dec. 8 the liquor was loaded on a truck, brought by Weiss and another man, and Pete Vesceva, Garavelli's partner, was there to watch the work for Garavelli.

Vesceva soon reported to Garavelli that two Federal officers had come as the truck was being loaded and "arrested" him and Weiss and had confiscated the truckload of whisky. He said the two officers, as he supposed them to be, displayed badges and revolvers, and after taking him and Weiss a short distance, released him.

Weiss has stated that he was to have purchased the whisky of Garavelli for $13,000 for Chicago men, and that while the truck was being loaded three men, who wore badges and displayed revolvers, surrounded him and told him to accompany them to the Federal Building.

Told Not to Worry. After the fake raid, Garavelli has stated, both Cohn and Weiss telephoned him not to worry, as he would get his whisky back.

Following the action by the State, which resulted in warrants and indictments, Special Prohibition Agent McCampbell was sent here from Washington to inquire into the situation, and the result of his investigation was the issuance of the Federal warrants.

WANTS ARMY PLANE FIRST IN FLIGHT ACROSS PACIFIC

Maj.-Gen. Patrick Tells Flying Club of Plans for Building Up Aviation in This Country.

DIRIGIBLE ROMA MAY COME TO BELLEVILLE
A. B. Lambert, Who Would Get 1923 Pulitzer Race for St. Louis, Expects 300-Mile Speed.

Major-General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the United States Army Air Service, who was guest of honor at a dinner of the Flying Club of St. Louis at the Missouri Athletic Association last night, declared that he expected American army aviators to make the first flight across the Pacific Ocean.

Gen. Patrick came to St. Louis in connection with a tour of inspection to Scott Field, near Belleville, to determine whether it shall be made headquarters for the lighter-than-air craft and forces of the army. He said, as to Scott Field, that he was favorably impressed with the field, but would have to return to Washington before announcing a decision. He said he believed the lighter-than-air training should be centralized. It is now being carried on at two fields, one in Virginia and one on the Pacific Coast.

May Build Huge Hangar. Indications of the probable action to be taken are the assignment of Col. C. G. Hall, Senior Colonel in the air service, to Scott Field to succeed Maj. Frank Kennedy as commanding officer, and the construction there of a giant hangar, ready in July, to house the Roma, the big balloon bought from Italy.

Gen. Patrick said, as to the trans-Pacific flight, that plans had not been worked out, but that he did not intend that any other country should "beat the United States to it."

"I propose also," he said, "to have American flyers, in a plane of all-American make, go up in the air and stay there until they bring the endurance record to this country." He said the United States already held the altitude mark for heavier-than-air craft and, under plans being worked out by Albert Bond Lambert of St. Louis, might also before long hold the lighter-than-air record.

"Aviation is being developed to such an extent that the first line of a country's defense in future wars will be its air forces," said Gen. Patrick. "Even naval men admit there is no boat built that cannot be sunk by aerial craft. If the United States becomes involved in war again, the enemy fleet would be met and vanquished so far out to sea that the people on shore would never hear the guns."

Means to Gain Supremacy. Development of commercial aviation was stressed by Gen. Patrick as the chief means through which the United States can attain air supremacy. Such activities supply, in time of need, factories for quantity production of planes, and trained flyers to man them.

Gen. Patrick said that appropriations to enable the United States Weather Bureau to provide daily meteorological surveys, Federal licensing of aviators and the laying out of airways, with lighthouses and regular and emergency landing fields for day and night flying, are necessary before the United States can wrest air supremacy from France and England, now leading in commercial aviation.

Albert Bond Lambert spoke of plans for bringing the Pulitzer trophy race of 1923 to St. Louis. He said the Flying Club would endeavor to make the field at Bridgeton, St. Louis County, the only field in the country suitable for the 1923 event.

Foresees 300-Mile Speed. "Planes at that time will be flying 200 miles an hour," Lambert said. "No landing field in the country is now in shape to care for such speed, but for $10,000 we can get Bridgeton in condition."

was upheld yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Brodski and Newton were sentenced in the trial court to two years imprisonment each in the McNeil's Island Penitentiary. In addition Brodski was fined $10,000 and Newton $5000.

KILLING OF WOMAN BY AUTO AN ACCIDENT

Victim, Struck Sunday Night, Identified as Mrs. Louise Kreuter by Son.

A Coroner's jury today returned a verdict of accident at the inquest in the case of Mrs. Louise Kreuter, 69 years old, of 2014 Penrose street, who was struck by the automobile of Theodore A. Williams of 4554 Page boulevard, about 8 o'clock Sunday night at Grand avenue and Penrose street, and died two hours later at the city hospital. Her body was not identified until last night.

Williams testified that he was driving north on Grand and saw Mrs. Kreuter standing near the east car track, as though waiting for a north-bound Grand car, and that he assumed she had given him the right of way. As he started to pass her, between where she stood and the curb, he said, she suddenly darted toward the sidewalk, directly in front of his car. She was struck and knocked down.

Williams' testimony was substantially corroborated by John McInnis, 1216 West 2nd avenue, a barber, who was riding with him, and August A. Van Nest, 4212 Gano avenue, who was on the sidewalk.

Fred Kreuter, a son, called at the hospital after reading a description of the body and identified it as that of his mother. He said she left home Sunday afternoon to visit her brother, Fred Stoull, at 4124 Gano avenue, and when she failed to return the family believed she had remained at the brother's home during the night. When she did not return home yesterday an investigation was started and it was learned she had left her brother's home about 7 o'clock Sunday night.

Boy, 5, Watching Fire Apparatus, Killed by Truck.

Andrew Halliv, 5 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Halliv of 1604 Picker street, was killed at 12:30 p. m. yesterday by a truck driven by Samuel H. Price, 30, of 4352 Easton avenue, at Twelfth street and Park avenue.

Andrew, with two other boys, was on the way to Holy Trinity School, 1291 Park avenue, after lunch, when they started running across Park avenue from the south to the north side. Andrew, the police were told, attracted by fire apparatus, was not watching the truck, which was westbound. Price told the police he sounded his horn and the boys with Andrew stopped, but Andrew continued on, stepping in the path of the machine.

Youth in Taxicab Badly Injured

When Another Machine Hits Car.

John McDermott, 19, of 3814 West Pine boulevard, suffered concussion of the brain at 11:45 last night when thrown from a taxicab in which he was seated, after it was struck by an automobile driven by Adolph C. Gerner, 26, who gave his address as 5449 Pershing avenue. The taxicab was parked in front of 5405 Delmar boulevard when it was struck by the Gerner machine, east-bound. Gerner left his name and address with witnesses and was arrested at 1 a. m. today and taken to the city hospital. He was later taken to the Page Boulevard Police Station, where he admitted his car struck the taxicab, but said he did not see it in time to avoid a collision. He said he had attended a banquet earlier in the evening. Police charged him with driving an automobile when intoxicated.

WOMAN, 65, HIT BY STREET CAR DOWNTOWN, IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Miss Emma Woods, Seamstress, Said to Have Stepped in Front of Vehicle.

Miss Emma Woods, 65 years old, of 1122 Locust street, a seamstress, suffered a so badly crushed left leg that it was necessary to amputate it, below the knee; scalp wounds, a fractured nose and body bruises, shortly after 6 o'clock last evening, when knocked down and run over by an eastbound Delmar-Olive street car, about 100 feet east of Twelfth street on Olive street. She was taken to the city hospital.

Witnesses told the police Miss Woods started to cross from the north to the south side of Olive street, not at the regular crossing, and stepped in front of the car. Walter L. Zocherman of Overland, Mo., the motorman, said he saw Miss Woods' danger and applied the emergency brakes, bringing the car to a stop within 10 feet of the scene of accident. The left front of the car, he said, struck the woman and knocked her down. She was lying between the east and west bound car rails when picked up.

The motorman and the conductor, Arvel Farris, 6403 Eitel avenue, were arrested and provided bond.

COMES FROM GERMANY TO WED WIDOWER AT ST. CHARLES

Miss Klara Mittler, 27 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mittler of Stuttgart, Germany, and Henry Grau, 44, of Roschertown, St. Charles County, were married today in the Lutheran Church at St. Charles by the Rev. J. A. Freidrich. Grau, a widower, with several children, had not met his bride before she arrived in St. Charles, Saturday, from New York City. The courtship was set afoot through the efforts of a friend of the bridegroom, who knew Miss Mittler. Correspondence and an exchange of photographs followed. Miss Mittler, who speaks German only, left Stuttgart, Jan. 25, on a ticket provided by Grau. She arrived in New York last Wednesday. Her father is a merchant. The couple will reside in St. Charles.

Neuritis—Feels 20 Years Younger

W. F. Wislani, 200 Fort St. West, Detroit, Mich., writes: "I have taken Cadomene tablets and am on my fourth tube. Have been troubled with Neuritis for 5 years. I feel about as young now as I did 20 years ago; am 47 now. I will probably take them for about 5 months more. If this testimonial is of any benefit to humanity, you may spread it on paper and send it everywhere."

Cadomene tablets, the favorite prescription of a great physician, are recommended to nervous, worn-out, tired people with nervous-indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability, and impoverished blood. These tablets are tonic to the various vital organs and soon restore health and strength by supplying phosphorus and iron, enriching the blood, and increasing the nerve force. Sold by good druggists everywhere in sealed tubes. Two weeks' usage proves it.

Better Flour—Better Baking!

Your baking problems are solved when you use ARISTOS FLOUR. Made from choice selected wheat and milled by a special process, it is invariably uniform in quality—and that quality always the very highest. Economical to use because the best is the cheapest in the long run. There's no waste in ARISTOS, for perfect results are assured. It is indeed, the dependable, all-purpose flour—equally good for baking bread, biscuits, cakes, pies.

- Try these recipes:
- ARISTOS BREAD
1 quart warm potato water
2 heaping tablespoons sugar
1 heaping tablespoon lard
1 level tablespoon salt
1/2 cake compressed yeast
3 quarts Aristos Flour
- PROCESS
Dissolve yeast, sugar and salt in water.
Add lard to Aristos Flour. Make into a dough, and after greasing dough on top, put aside and let stand for five hours (which is termed proofing). Then press dough down and let stand again from one-half to one hour, according to temperature. Now fold dough into loaves without kneading, and let them stand three-fourths to one hour before baking.
It will usually take one hour for this size loaves to bake—four loaves being what this amount of dough will make.
- ARISTOS BISCUITS
2 level cups Aristos Flour
1 cup sweet milk or water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 heaping tablespoon lard
1 heaping teaspoon baking powder
- PROCESS
Sift Aristos Flour, salt and baking powder together in pan or bowl. Rub lard in thoroughly and then add milk or water and stir briskly with a spoon.
Mold on floured board and bake in quick oven.
- ARISTOS PIE CRUST
1 cup Aristos Flour
2 rounded tablespoons lard
3 tablespoons cold water
1 pinch salt
- Rub lard well into the Aristos Flour, and then add the water and salt. Mix quickly and then roll out on floured board. This recipe should be doubled if large two-crust pie is wanted.

WOMAN OBTAINS DIVORCE AND SLIDING SCALE OF ALIMONY

Court Order at Clayton Against Chicago Man Anticipates Increases in His Income.

A sliding scale of alimony and detailed provisions for the custody of her two children were included in the divorce decree granted by Judge Wurdeman at Clayton yesterday to Mrs. Estelle P. Crane of Hampton Park, St. Louis County, who had charged her husband, Wilbur Crane of Chicago, president of the Illinois Steel Bridge Co., with desertion, indifference, coldness and quarrelsome-ness.

Gross alimony of $2000 and payments of $500 a month were ordered.
The monthly payments to be increased to $600 a month when Crane's income, minus the interest on his indebtedness, amounts to $12,000 a year, and to $750 a month when the income, less the interest, is $15,000. The mother obtained general custody of the children,
Joseph, 12 years old, and Robert,
6. The father is to have them for one month of vacation and the mother for two consecutive months.
They are to spend nine months in boarding schools agreed on by the parents. Mrs. Crane must establish a home either in Missouri or Chicago, where Crane can visit the children and have the car had struck them when he was trying to avoid another automobile.

The Cranes were married in 1908 and separated in December, 1920.
The suit was not contested.

Gets Three Months for Injury to Two Women in March, 1921.

Vito Castelli of 2902 Gamble street pleaded guilty to a charge of felonious wounding and was sentenced to three months in the workhouse by Circuit Judge Franklin Miller yesterday.

The charge grew out of the injury of Margaret Hempleman of 4114A Farlin avenue and Roena Bollinger of 4066 Enright avenue, at Sarah and Olive streets, in March, 1921, by an automobile driven by Castelli. He said his car had struck them when he was trying to avoid another automobile.

volume of new business now being received.

A brisk demand for coal is in evidence. Large consumers are accumulating reserve stocks in order to be protected to event of a strike

QUINCY, Mass., Feb. 14.—The Fore River Shipbuilding Co., subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, has laid off 1000 men, bringing the total number employed at its plant here to 1800 men. Federal officials stationed at the yards have been notified to stop work on many big ships. Unless new orders are received before fall, the plant will be forced to close down, according to a statement today by General Manager Wakeman.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 14.—
The 8-cent hog again has made its appearance in Texas yards. Prices for hogs have advanced to $9.10 per 100 pounds, which is the highest price recorded for a year.

WOOL.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—Wool prices continue to rise in this market. Some clips sold this week brought 31 cents, as against 23 to 26 cents a week ago. Growers are slow to make contracts. Heavy snow and cold in the mountains has caused some loss of lambs.

LEATHER.
NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Prices for leather are firm here. Tanneries of low grades of leather are running at nearly full speed, but those plants making a specialty of the better grades are doing little.

STEEL.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 14.—Mar-

GRAND JURY TO REPORT ON RICHWINE MURDER

Report of Indictment Against Dr. R. X. McCracken Is Not Confirmed.

The St. Clair County grand jury, which has completed its investigation of the murder of Mrs. Clara Richwine and her father-in-law, William Richwine, whose bodies were found Jan. 9 at the Richwine home on Fifty-first street, near East St. Louis, will make a report in Belleville Circuit Court this afternoon.

Acting State's Attorney Lindauer refused this morning to say whether an indictment had been voted against Dr. Robert X. McCracken, former St. Clair County Coroner, against whom a murder warrant was issued and later dismissed in an East St. Louis Justice court when called for preliminary hearing.

A report was circulated in Belleville and East St. Louis last night that an indictment had been voted and it received credence, but lacked confirmation. Lindauer refused to discuss it. He said a secret ballot was taken at 4 p. m., but he was not present and had not been advised of the result.

The grand jury, he said, would finish up its work in other cases today and report in the afternoon.

The practice is to withhold from publicity indictments against persons who are not under arrest, turning them over to the Sheriff to arrest the indicted persons, but if an indictment is returned against Dr. McCracken it is expected that the fact will be made known.

Charles Karch, one of McCracken's attorneys, said he would be in court when the grand jury reported and would inquire immediately if an indictment had been returned against Dr. McCracken and, if so, would ask that the physician be notified and permitted to give himself up or ask for permission to be brought in and ask for release on bond.

Dr. McCracken said today he did not know whether he had been indicted, but that he anticipated this when he learned that the grand jury had refused to hear testimony favorable to him.

Lindauer said he was not aware that testimony favorable to Dr. McCracken had been refused by the grand jury and suggested that witnesses might have arrived too late. However, he pointed out that it was not the function of the grand jury to try the case, but to decide whether there was reasonable cause for charging a person with the commission of a crime.

Solicitor-General Gifford of Perversion of James M. Beck Tells Bar Association Rights of States Can Be Destroyed by Abuse of Taxing Privilege.

Constitution-making was described as "a busy but not very satisfying industry." In the address delivered by James M. Beck, Solicitor-General of the United States, at the Bar Association dinner at Hotel Statler last night. Several hundred lawyers and the law students, the members of the Women's Bar Association, and Federal, State and Circuit Judges were present.

Beck, who spoke of himself as "representing the world's biggest client in the world's greatest court," became known first by his part in the Northern Securities case, tried 26 years ago in St. Louis—a fact to which D. N. Kitchy, presiding at the dinner, referred. Fred W. Lehmann, dinner speaker, sat at his right. Beck is best known to the general public through his war-time controversial works, including his book, "The Evidence in the Case," and his later writings criticizing President Wilson, one being a book entitled "The Passing of the New Freedom."

Alluding to the coming constitution convention in Missouri, Beck said: "In the first 60 years of the nineteenth century, some 330 constitutions were framed in different parts of the world. In the first 100 years in our country, 138 constitutions were made; and in the last seven years, in this country, four new constitutions have been adopted, and some 400 constitutional amendments have been proposed."

Tells of First Convention. "I doubt whether any constitutional convention will duplicate the success of that which met in Philadelphia in 1787 and which framed the Federal Constitution. I doubt whether any group of men will be found, so sanely brilliant, as those 55-odd, who had the rare good judgment to sit behind closed doors for four months, with such secrecy that even George Washington did not feel at liberty to mention details of their deliberations to the Marquis de Lafayette."

"Notably were the secrets of that convention kept in its time, but they were kept for nearly a half-century afterward, until the deliberations were revealed through the making public of Madison's 'Debates.'"

"Never again, perhaps, will a constitutional convention meet with such a clear distrust of what they called democratic government, and the action of the people. They did not believe that massed ignorance could pass on Government policies, and hence they built on the principle of representative government, and made, as Pitt said, a pattern for all future master builders."

"And they had a sense of restraint. After all their long deliberations, they could bring forth a document of 2000 words, 141 sentences, with not a wasted word. This restraint was wrought in part by the tremendous pressure of the anarchy which was felt to be impending, if their work should not be successful."

Solicitor-General Beck spoke of present problems of judicial interpretation of the constitution. "Under the prevailing centrifugal tendencies," he said, "our Constitution is being subjected to so great a strain that those whose duty and privilege it is to define its principles and themselves in a blind alley of negotiation."

Power of Supreme Court. "The greatest question before the Supreme Court is, How far is the judiciary permitted to restrain the perversion of delegated powers?" Chief Justice Marshall said that if Congress, under the pretext of exercising its powers, should try to attain an end not entrusted to Congress by the Constitution, he would not hesitate to declare such action null and void.

"Yet in recent years, in a case where it was clear that the power of taxation was being perverted by Congress—the case of the prohibitive tax on oleomargarin colored to resemble butter, a tax levied at the instance of dairy interests—the 1st Chief Justice White, conceding the perversion of power, held that the judiciary would not be justified in perverting

LUALDI TELLS OF NEW POPE'S LIFE BEFORE PAPAL ELEVATION. Prayer and Calm Cornerstones of Character, Says Cardinal; Pontiff Cheered by Former Fellow. By the Associated Press. ROME, Feb. 14.—Cardinal Luialdi, Archbishop of Palermo, in an interview published in the Corriere d'Informazioni, gives some interesting sidelights on the life of Pope Pius XI. The cornerstones in Pius' character, says the interview, are prayer and calm, and his whole life has been dominated by the rule of the sacred office.

Solicitor-General Gives Warning of Perversion of Federal Powers

its powers to arrest the anticonstitutional purpose of Congress.

"It will be my duty to argue some cases which involve a similar question. It is a terrible alternative. If the court shall say that, given the power to tax, it will never inquire into the motive or objective, then the taking power can be so perverted that little will be left of the rights of the States. There are hardly any reserved rights of the States that cannot be destroyed by the perversion of Federal powers."

The framers of the Constitution drew a line between what is judicially anticonstitutional and what is judicially unconstitutional. They did not intend the judiciary to enter the field of political discussion."

The speaker said that, in the decisions of Chief Justice Marshall, there was little reference to the intent of the framers of the Constitution. He said that the framers were living and could have been consulted as to their intent. He said it was Marshall's method to avoid debatable questions as to history and philosophy, and to reason abstractly from the actual text. This, he said, built a system of negotiations in concrete cases, which were built up into a body of affirmation.

Cites Beaumarchais Claim.

Discussing the judicial history of England and France in the period before the framing of the American Constitution, Beck digressed to tell the romantic story of Beaumarchais, French dramatist and political factor, who contrived the plan which furnished powder and ammunition to the American colonies, and to the American Colonies, when the French Government was not ready to abandon neutrality. He told the story of Beaumarchais' long claim against the United States Government, not settled until Andrew Jackson's time.

Reverting to the constitution convention of 1787, he told of the proposal, defeated at one time by only one vote in the convention, that the Supreme Court should be constituted the censor of all Federal and State laws. He raised the question whether, if this provision had been placed in the Constitution, the Government would have endured.

"If the President marches a regiment across the Rio Grande to precipitate war," he said, "it is an act of rebellion, and the Government can declare war. He spoke of cases now pending, involving the power of taxation, as difficult, exasperating and dangerous, however decided, whether the Supreme Court shall decide to go behind the motives of Congress in certain acts, or to accept the acts of Congress at their face value."

He declined, after the address, to specify any of the pending cases to which he had made general allusion.

SOLDIER WITH RIFLE BASIC UNIT IN WAR, ARMY CHIEFS AGREE

Aircraft, Tanks, Bombs and Machine Guns Auxiliary to Infantry in Bulk, Unanimous Opinions State.

GOSPEL OF "COLD STEEL" STILL RULES

Views Expressed in Study Among High Officers of Effect of Modern Science Developments Upon Methods of Warfare.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The "doughboy" with a bayonet still is the "basic combatant" unit in battle, in the virtually unanimous judgment of the American army, officially rendered in cold postwar analysis. Aircraft, tanks, bombs, machine guns, cannon merely are valuable auxiliaries. The infantry "man in the bulk," however, armed with rifle and bayonet, and each foot soldier armored only by his "own agility" and a steel helmet are held to be first.

For "battle is normally determined by physical encounter with the bayonet or the fear thereof," the official conclusion of the army made public today asserts. It is based on answers to a widespread "questionnaire" sent recently through the War Department, through and through corps and divisional areas, even down to the commanders of regiments, to lay the ground work for the "doctrines of tactics and of training" on the fixed postwar building of the army shall proceed.

The answers were unmistakable. There has been no change, soldiers who fought in France believe, in the age-old gospel of "cold steel" in war. As it was with Cromwell's grim host bidding for victory "with push of pike," with Napoleon's old guard charging but never broken, and with Pickett's "flower of the South" at Gettysburg, so it was with Pershing's "buddies" in France. Cold steel was the ultimate arbiter of battle.

"Specialists Overenthusiastic."

The conclusion follows a study of the influence that modern scientific developments will have upon warfare, especially aviation, motor transport and tanks. Chiefs of all combat branches had their say on the questionnaire designed "to bring out the military thought" both on basic principles and as to changes in fighting technique necessitated by new weapons.

The department's statement admitted that the latter phase was expected to show "that specialists of any kind, particularly in newly discovered agencies, will, in their enthusiasm, make some claims for a special role, not safely to be accepted except after the proof of their utility in results of war or of special test under simulated war conditions."

The statement was realized, and as the research work goes on, tests will be made "to solve debatable questions." Among these is "that of the comparative value of bombing planes and fixed heavy guns in sea-coast defenses."

"It is possible at this time," the statement added, "to announce the conclusion of the War Department resulting from the answers to the basic question as to which there was substantially unanimous agreement. It is concluded, and doctrines of tactics and of training will be based accordingly:

"That man remains the fundamental instrument in battle, and as such cannot be replaced by any machine or instrument short of one more perfect than the human body, including the mind."

"That man in the bulk—meaning the greater portion of the armed forces—fights with greatest freedom of action and with greatest efficiency when on foot, not on horseback, in a tank, in an airplane, in a fixed fortification, etc.; that to achieve decisive action he is best armed with the rifle and bayonet; that man rendered least vulnerable when merely clothed against the weather and armored by his own ability with steel helmet."

Bayonet the Chief Weapon.

"That battle is normally determined by physical encounter with the bayonet or the fear thereof; all other agencies of destruction, as artillery, machine guns, aircraft, are auxiliary in their effect, however potent, and serve to make possible the advance of the foot soldier to hand-to-hand encounter."

"That infantry is the basic combatant arm upon whose success normally depends the success of the army; the primary duty of other arms, when associated with infantry, is to assist the infantry to achieve its mission by protecting and aiding it in every way and by destroying enemy resistance to its efforts."

"That no arm except infantry can be expected under normal conditions to destroy an approximately equal

CONGRESSMAN INDICTS PROHIBITION ON 19 COUNTS

The Post-Dispatch Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Representative MacGregor, Republican of Buffalo, N. Y., cited 19 "effects" yesterday to prove that prohibition is detrimental to the nation. The citation was made in urging that the manufacture of light wine and beer be permitted to raise the revenue to pay the soldiers' bonus. The 19 effects are:

1. It has deprived the people of their inherent right of liberty.
2. It has made a nation of hypocrites.
3. It has made law-breaking popular.
4. It has created a state of rebellion among millions of our citizens.
5. It has destroyed the sacredness of law.
6. It has resulted in the moral degradation of our people.
7. It has made a whisky-drinking nation.
8. It has brought corruption in public office.
9. One of the complaints against George III set forth in the Declaration of Independence was: "He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people." Our Government is doing what our founders fought against.
10. It has established a spy system in our country.
11. It has debauched our youth.
12. It has made bootlegging a respectable business.
13. It has given special privileges to the rich, who can afford to buy liquors to entertain their prohibition friends.
14. It has taken away the harmless glass of beer from the working man and the light wine from those long accustomed to it.
15. It has subjected legitimate business to the whims, caprices and arrogance of Government officials.
16. It has increased taxation.
17. It has brought in its train all manner of petty grafting.
18. It has brought destruction of human life in its wake.
19. It has weakened the very foundation of our Government.

JUDGE DENOUNCES KANSAS CITY POLICE

Writes to Attorney-General That Rioting Is Threatened as Result of Violation of Law.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 14.—Charging willful violation of State laws and constitutional guarantees by the Police Department here, Judge Thomas B. Buckner of the Trial Circuit Court, in a letter to Attorney-General J. W. Barrett of Missouri, stated yesterday that he was "in continual dread, owing to conditions here, that there shortly be a rebellion and riot in this town, which may result in the most serious consequences."

In his letter, Judge Buckner wrote that he believed if time someone charged with prosecution of law violators saw to it that the Police Department "obey the law themselves."

"Numerous persons," Judge Buckner wrote, "are arrested without any cause and, by threats, torture and other means, compelled to make confessions."

Arrested Without Warrant.

Discussing police procedure in raids, Judge Buckner declared: "Business houses, rooming houses, hotels and apartments are being broken into, trunks broken open and people arrested without any warrant or writ whatever."

"Numerous persons have been shot down by the police, some without cause, and others simply because they have failed to obey the order of the police to stop. Oftentimes orders to stop are given by people who are citizens without making known their official character."

"I make the charge that here the Police Department is absolutely acting in defiance of the civil authority, with absolute knowledge and that they are violating both the Constitution and laws of this State and the nation."

Commissioner's Reply.

Charges of violation of law by the Kansas City Police Department, made by Judge Buckner, were characterized as "absolutely false" by Matthew A. Foster, Police Commissioner, here.

"The German Literary Society was organized in 1872 with a capital stock of $300,000, which was reduced 10 years later to $145,667. Each share had a par value of $20. Only half had been paid up and the petition set forth. Pollard and the other defendants got control last autumn through acquiring stock from Gummerebach, who had been the reorganization it had been Gummerebach's idea to cease printing the paper and have the corporation liquidated, according to Attorney Robert. The attorney said that before the European war the surplus of the company amounted to $80,000, but has been reduced to $20,000, which made liquidation seem necessary."

Sartorius said yesterday that lately the volume of advertising in Amerika has been quite heavy, but he did not know the newspaper's circulation. There appeared to be an effort on the part of the new managers, Sartorius said, to get away from the German field, many articles recently having been printed in English.

Monday morning a reporter yesterday that the filing of the suit was his first information that Sartorius and other stockholders were dissatisfied. He denied the charges, but he would not appear before Judge Hall to resist the application. The suit also asks for an accounting by the defendants.

PARTY FUSION CONSTITUTION TICKET WINS

All 15 Candidates for Delegates-at-Large to Convention Elected Over the 13 Independents.

HIGHEST VOTE FOR DEMOCRATS

J. W. Alexander Leads All, Which Is Expected to Make Him Contender for Convention Presidency.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—The 15 candidates for delegates-at-large to the State constitutional convention who composed the fusion ticket of Republican and Democratic parties were elected by safe margins over their 13 independent opponents in the election Jan. 31, canvass of the vote by Secretary of State Beck-er shows.

Joshua W. Alexander of Gallatin, Democrat, former Congressman and Secretary of Commerce during the latter part of the Wilson administration, led all the candidates, winning over the entire field in 41 counties and receiving a total vote of 77,117.

William Sacks of St. Louis, Republican, wealthy oil operator and office building owner, was the low man among the winners, with a total of 63,164. William K. James of St. Joseph, Democrat, and backed by the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, received 54,729; and the independent, with 50,838.

The total vote was 104,814, about 7.8 per cent of the 1,330,622 votes cast for Governor at the 1920 election.

Vote Received by Winners.

The vote received by the winners was Alexander, 77,117; Stephen B. Hunter, Cape Girardeau, wealthy farmer, Democrat, 74,729; William T. Johnson, Kansas City, Democrat, son of the late Waldo P. Johnson, president of the constitutional convention of 1875, 74,155; Mrs. W. W. Martin, Fayette, Democrat, teacher, 72,679; Daniel G. Taylor, St. Louis, lawyer, former Circuit Judge, Democrat, 72,620; Charles J. Morris, St. Joseph, newspaper publisher, Republican, 72,194; A. A. Spear, Jefferson City, banker, Republican, 70,810; A. T. Dunn, Jefferson City, lawyer, Democrat, 69,831; George H. Williams, Clayton, Republican, former Circuit Judge of St. Louis county, 68,864; Don O. Vernon, Lebanon, lawyer, Democrat, 68,748; Mrs. Walter McNab Miller, St. Louis, health worker, Republican, 68,390; Solon T. Gilmore, Kansas City, lawyer, Democrat, 66,086; Norman A. Mozley, Bloomfield, lawyer, former State Supreme Court Commissioner, Republican, 65,931; Cassius M. Shartel, Neosho, lawyer, former Congressman, Republican, 64,148; Sacks, 63,164.

Analysis of the losing candidates in the order in which they failed in the vote was: James O. Greene, Sedalia, 40,093; A. J. Crawford, Macon, 47,982; Reuben T. Wood, Springfield, 47,096; William C. Carver, St. Louis, 41,667; David Kreyling, St. Louis, 39,034; Elizabeth Buchanan, Kansas City, 39,024; John Porter Henry, Webster Groves, 37,829; Dr. Malcolm D. Piles, Carver, 37,439; Clarence H. Howard, St. Louis, 36,555; Miss Marie B. Ames, St. Louis, 35,757; Walter J. G. Neun, St. Louis, 32,737; Mrs. George H. Gellhorn, St. Louis, 31,197.

Analysis of the Vote.

Analysis of the vote by counties shows that the independents carried only nine, which were Adair, Buchanan, Clark, Greene, Macon, Marion, Morgan, Pettis and Randolph, though running strong also in Charlton, Franklin, Dade and Grundy. The fusion ticket carried the remainder. Next to Alexander, Hunter led in the most counties, with 15, although Mrs. Martin was close to the Cape Girardeau man, with 14. Johnson was ahead in eight, Spear in seven, Morris in five, Crawford in four, Dunn, Mrs. Miller, Greene and Wood in two each and Williams, Vernon and James in one each. Taylor topped all the rest in St. Louis. Mrs. Martin in St. Louis County and Johnson in Jackson County (Kansas City), his home.

Democratic partisans are taking considerable comfort from the fact that in 85 counties the highest vote was given to a Democrat. The commanding margin by which Alexander was elected is expected by his friends to make the Gallatin man, though a prominent figure in Missouri affairs, a contender for the presidency of the convention, for which Mackey placed on the ticket as a suggested by the fifteenth place, after Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis had declined, also has been mentioned. Supporters of Spear, a former Speaker of the House of Representatives, likewise are hopeful that he may be selected for that honor.

"TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT" IS BASIS OF FORD'S OFFER ON MUSCLE SHOALS PROJECT

Efforts to Exact Pledges for Manufacture of Fertilizers Fails—Tennessee Governor Urges Contract Acceptance.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—W. B. Mayo, chief engineer and personal spokesman for Henry Ford, today notified the House Military Committee investigating the Ford offer for purchase and lease of the Muscle Shoals (Ala.) Government-owned properties that Ford had made the best offer he could. The statement was accepted by the committee as reaffirming Mr. Mayo's declaration yesterday that Mr. Ford would not accept any material alteration in provisions of his proposed plan and Congress could accept it as tendered or reject it without disappointing the Detroit manufacturer.

The investigation was continued today with Mayo as principal witness facing a rapid fire interrogation by Representative Miller, Republican, Washington, who said he intended to show where the Government "gets off in this deal."

"One item of considerable size," Miller said, "will be the $1,600,000 interest charge in the two years required to complete dam No. 2 and construct dam No. 3. The $10,000,000 to be used for this work must be raised by bonds, probably at 4 per cent interest. We cannot load the taxpayers by taking it from the Treasury."

Mayo said the dams could be constructed within a two-year period.

In concluding his statements, the Washington member declared he understood the contract thoroughly and had developed the testimony for the information of the House when it was called upon to pass upon the offer.

Mortgage Guarantee Asked.

Representative Parker of New Jersey then asked if Ford would be willing to give a guarantee that he would not increase the price of the Muscle Shoals project unless the Government violated a contract with the company. Previously officers of the Judge Advocate-General's Department had said the contract was nonrenegotiable.

Warrior Title Demanded.

Statements by Maj. Burns that the Warrior plant was not essential to the Ford plan were countered later by Mayo, who declared the power developed there was needed and Ford would demand a clear title to that unit. This situation was regarded by committee members as interfering a difficult obstruction to be overcome before they could return the Ford plan to the House for disposition.

While the committee worked on Ford offer at the Capitol, Secretary Weeks continued study at the War Department of other Muscle Shoals offers. He notified Frederick Engstrom of Wilmington, N. C., that he would give him a hearing Wednesday morning, after which he would submit his offer to Congress.

Mayo said the committee Ford intended to manufacture fertilizers and would not produce "exclusively their nitrate ingredients." He also declared that not more than 4 per cent profit would be imposed and that it was Ford's intention to deliver the completed product direct to the farmer.

Questions Make Auto Parts.

Mayo said that his own purpose at Muscle Shoals. It was not the intention, Mayo stated, to establish a power selling company to compete with such utilities.

Part of the power created, he explained, would be consumed in the manufacture of "automobile parts from raw materials."

Transportation Facilities.

Transit facilities for remote sections of Alabama and Tennessee to convey their products to the Ohio, Mississippi and Gulf regions would be afforded under the Ford plan, Mayo said.

Representative Quin of Mississippi attacked committee members who, he said, had attempted to read things into Ford's contract "that plainly weren't there."

Production Figures Called Wrong.

Mayo agreed that statements that Ford could only produce one-third of the power of the Muscle Shoals plant were incorrect. He said they could be produced in sufficient quantities to have a material effect on the market.

"Some folks think Ford will take nitrogen from the air to hurt the health of the people and kill the gardens and crops. That isn't true, is it?" asked Quin.

"No, sir."

At this point the committee took a recess.

Tennessee Governor Urges Acceptance.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 14.—Acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant to take the last vestige of sectionalism that has existed in the South," Gov. Taylor said last night before leaving with the Tennessee delegation which will appear at the House Military Affairs Committee hearing in Washington Wednesday. Declaring his support of the proposal, the Governor said: "I realize that it would be the greatest thing that could happen for the South."

"Some folks think Ford will take nitrogen from the air to hurt the health of the people and kill the gardens and crops. That isn't true, is it?" asked Quin.

"No, sir."

"Well, some of them are afraid they won't have air to breathe," Quin declared.

At this point the committee took a recess.

Tennessee Governor Urges Acceptance.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 14.—Acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant to take the last vestige of sectionalism that has existed in the South," Gov. Taylor said last night before leaving with the Tennessee delegation which will appear at the House Military Affairs Committee hearing in Washington Wednesday. Declaring his support of the proposal, the Governor said: "I realize that it would be the greatest thing that could happen for the South."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—W. B. Mayo, chief engineer and personal spokesman for Henry Ford, today notified the House Military Committee investigating the Ford offer for purchase and lease of the Muscle Shoals (Ala.) Government-owned properties that Ford had made the best offer he could. The statement was accepted by the committee as reaffirming Mr. Mayo's declaration yesterday that Mr. Ford would not accept any material alteration in provisions of his proposed plan and Congress could accept it as tendered or reject it without disappointing the Detroit manufacturer.

The investigation was continued today with Mayo as principal witness facing a rapid fire interrogation by Representative Miller, Republican, Washington, who said he intended to show where the Government "gets off in this deal."

"One item of considerable size," Miller said, "will be the $1,600,000 interest charge in the two years required to complete dam No. 2 and construct dam No. 3. The $10,000,000 to be used for this work must be raised by bonds, probably at 4 per cent interest. We cannot load the taxpayers by taking it from the Treasury."

Mayo said the dams could be constructed within a two-year period.

In concluding his statements, the Washington member declared he understood the contract thoroughly and had developed the testimony for the information of the House when it was called upon to pass upon the offer.

Mortgage Guarantee Asked.

Representative Parker of New Jersey then asked if Ford would be willing to give a guarantee that he would not increase the price of the Muscle Shoals project unless the Government violated a contract with the company. Previously officers of the Judge Advocate-General's Department had said the contract was nonrenegotiable.

Warrior Title Demanded.

Statements by Maj. Burns that the Warrior plant was not essential to the Ford plan were countered later by Mayo, who declared the power developed there was needed and Ford would demand a clear title to that unit. This situation was regarded by committee members as interfering a difficult obstruction to be overcome before they could return the Ford plan to the House for disposition.

While the committee worked on Ford offer at the Capitol, Secretary Weeks continued study at the War Department of other Muscle Shoals offers. He notified Frederick Engstrom of Wilmington, N. C., that he would give him a hearing Wednesday morning, after which he would submit his offer to Congress.

Mayo said the committee Ford intended to manufacture fertilizers and would not produce "exclusively their nitrate ingredients." He also declared that not more than 4 per cent profit would be imposed and that it was Ford's intention to deliver the completed product direct to the farmer.

Questions Make Auto Parts.

Mayo said that his own purpose at Muscle Shoals. It was not the intention, Mayo stated, to establish a power selling company to compete with such utilities.

Part of the power created, he explained, would be consumed in the manufacture of "automobile parts from raw materials."

Transportation Facilities.

Transit facilities for remote sections of Alabama and Tennessee to convey their products to the Ohio, Mississippi and Gulf regions would be afforded under the Ford plan, Mayo said.

Representative Quin of Mississippi attacked committee members who, he said, had attempted to read things into Ford's contract "that plainly weren't there."

Production Figures Called Wrong.

Mayo agreed that statements that Ford could only produce one-third of the power of the Muscle Shoals plant were incorrect. He said they could be produced in sufficient quantities to have a material effect on the market.

"Some folks think Ford will take nitrogen from the air to hurt the health of the people and kill the gardens and crops. That isn't true, is it?" asked Quin.

"No, sir."

"Well, some of them are afraid they won't have air to breathe," Quin declared.

Shocker Departs Today for Mobile Training Grounds

Brown's Hurler, Who Tied for League Lead, Determined to Start Season in Shape.

WALTER GERBER IN FOLD

Mainstay of St. Louis Infield Sends in Signed Contract for Coming Season.

With the announcement yesterday that Walter Gerber, shortstop, had signed his contract for the 1932 campaign, five of the main cogs in the Browns machine are in the fold for the coming season. Gerber's signed document arrived yesterday along with that of Roy Davis, a recruit pitcher from Illinois, who had a three-day tryout with Fohl's club last year.

George Sisler, Johnny Tobin, Urban Shocker and Hank Severide are the other leading factors in the success of the Browns club, who are in line. Each of this quartet is working under a holdover contract. While few contract signers have been announced to date by Bob Quinn, he has not yet reported any real holdouts. In fact he does not anticipate a great deal of trouble.

It was announced by Quinn this morning that the signed contracts of Frank Ellerbe and Marty McManus had been received at headquarters. With his contract, Ellerbe sent a letter stating that no one was going to drive him off third base. McManus is scheduled to arrive second.

With this pair in line, all of the Browns infielders are in line, Jimmy Austin and Bill Mullen and Eugene Robertson, St. Louis boys, having previously signed the papers.

Among others who have come to terms are "Chick" Shorten, the outfielder, obtained from the Detroit Tigers, and Dave Danforth, the southpaw pitcher from Columbus, who is expected to be a regular.

Gerber is expected to cover short again for the Browns. Wallie is a valuable man. This was proved last season when he was out for a month because of a broken wrist, suffered when he stepped one of Sam Jones' efforts. During this time, the Browns lost many games.

Shocker to Get Early Start. Urban Shocker, who would rather defeat the New York Yankees than sit, will be the first member of the Browns to depart for the South. Shocker is scheduled to get away for Mobile, Ala., today. The first squad of Browns—the battery men—are booked for departure next Tuesday.

Business Manager Bob Quinn stated today that he expected Manager Lee Fohl here either Thursday or Friday. Fohl has been wintering at his home in Cleveland.

Tris Speaker Speaks. Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, passed through St. Louis last night on his way to Hubbard City, Tex., and dropped a few words in regard to the 1932 American League pennant situation. Speaker denied that he conceded the 1932 pennant to the New York club; that the Indians would be in the race and that the Browns had a well balanced club and would be hard to beat.

Speaker figured that with Stuffy McInnis on first base, the Indians this season will be a better balanced club than ever before. He thinks the loss of Ruth and Meusel will make the Yankees a weaker club at the start of the campaign. He also figures that "Bash" and Jones, the two pitchers obtained from the Red Sox, will be unable to make up for the loss of the two sluggers.

The Indians' manager asserted that the chief task of Manager Fohl would be the development of two young pitchers. Speaker announced that the Indian battery men would hold the first practice of the season at Dallas, Tex., Feb. 23.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14.—Fire destroyed the clubhouse of the Swope Golf Club Municipal links late yesterday, taking with it the clubhouse and other paraphernalia of 400 members, stored therein. The loss is believed to be the largest ever in the city. The building, which was of stone and frame, was estimated at $15,000, and $20,000 on the member's property.

Public Links Golfers Oppose Charge for Municipal Courses

Test Vote at Forest Park Golf Club Banquet, Following Explanation of Proposed Ordinance by Park Commissioner Pape, Results 67 to 44 Against the Bill Proposed.

Opposition to the bill before the Board of Aldermen providing for a tax on golf and tennis permits formed the keynote of speeches at the annual banquet of the Forest Park Golf Club at the Buckingham Hotel last night. Although no substitute plan was offered, it was generally agreed that the golf and tennis measure had insurmountable defects.

With the golfers themselves lined up against the bill, there appears to be little hope of its passage. There is now no relief in sight for those who had hoped that some of the tax might be ironed out of the municipal greens this spring.

Park Commissioner Pape made the most comprehensive talk on the proposed ordinance. He pointed out that the 1932 golf season was the last year and estimated that one-tenth of the number would pay the proposed $10 for a permit. This would bring $10,000. Charges for daily rounds, at 15 and 20 cents, would bring about $600, Pape estimated. Ten thousand tennis permits were issued last year, which, if each paid $1 this year, would yield $10,000. This would bring the total revenue to $26,000. Pape then stated that $43,000 had been spent on the links and courts last year, which, if spent again this year, would leave a deficit of $17,000.

Bill is Improperly Drawn. The bill apparently is defective in that it provides that no other money shall be expended on the course. Otherwise, that $26,000, added to the $43,000 expended last year, would enable the city to do more work on the links than was done last year.

Other speakers included Nelson Cunliff, Director of Public Welfare; J. B. Curran Sr., A. N. Sutherland and Cyrus Tuttle for their part in rescuing Donald Mana, a caddy, from the laagoon in Forest Park, Jan. 3. A memorial will be sent to the family of A. G. Block of Chicago, who died of pneumonia shortly after aiding in the rescue.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Classified as "Sport." MORE than 15 years ago popular prejudice wiped out the pigeon-killing industry, commonly alluded to as "live-bird" trapshooting. Public sentiment was aroused by the annual massacre of hundreds of thousands of birds which did not have a sporting chance for existence against the hunter, standing 16 yards distant, with gun at his shoulder.

Coverly this practice is now creeping back into a game which at best is not so very much more than propaganda for powder and gun makers. Sunday a 100-bird "flyer" event was completed at Kansas City; about 20 shooters competed, requiring 200 pigeons for the sacrifice.

Twenty years ago the Grand American Handicap was a live-bird event. It was a contest between all over the country assembled for a saturnalia of slaughter that lasted several days. Thousands upon thousands of pigeons were killed and the money prize fairly soared into the air.

One of these events was held in St. Louis—one of the closing ones of the live-bird days. One did not have to be an S. P. C. A. fanatic to feel his gorge rise at such a "sport." Against trained marksmen, standing with poised barrels even the fast-flying birds had little chance. Many times the birds refused to fly and had to be scared up into a feeble flutter, which made their deaths a certainty. Many actual "kills" did not come until the birds dropped dead outside the enclosure, while the rare birds that escaped over the fence unhurt were nearly all brought down by a ring of pot-bangers outside, shooting for food.

Of course the meat of the pigeons killed was salvaged for food, so that from this viewpoint the game has been justified, but it has yet to make good on the plea that it is a "sport." And it never will.

More About the Amateur. TENPIN bowling is about the only major pastime that has no "amateur" division. In this game prizes are practically always cash, and few matches are rolled in which the individuals are not interested in wages.

Another sport that might be termed non-amateur is trapshooting. In this game the rule-makers—who are inspired, if not controlled by munition companies—permit the "amateurs" to shoot for money. This happened Sunday at Kansas City, where the first prize for an amateur event was $500.

The practice is justified on the ground that the events are sweepstakes and that, therefore, the participants merely shoot for their own money.

Bullards formerly had no real amateurs, for much the same reason as in trapshooting; but the rise of the National Amateur Billiard Association has cleared up the sport considerably and has brought the amateur side of the game out into the open.

The Taint of Commerce. It may be noted that in all of the above-named sports, the fine Italian hand of the manufacturer either is or has been manifested. The government of bowling, trapshooting and professional billiards is too inspired the makers of implements.

At one time there was danger that amateur athletics as a whole might be similarly contaminated. That was when the late James E. Sullivan represented a sporting

The Piker basketball team, securely anchored in last place, will entertain the league-leading Missouri Tigers tomorrow night at Francis Gymnasium. The tipoff will take place at 8:30 o'clock.

This will be the second meeting between the two teams, the Tigers having won the last by the one-sided score of 46 to 25. However, the contest was a nip and tuck affair until early in the fourth quarter.

In spite of their exalted position in the Conference standing, the Tigers are not sure to have an easy time of it. The Pikers have lost eight out of nine contests, but in the last five games have exhibited greatly improved play. In their last four defeats the Pikers lost by four or less points of 117, 100, 100 and 100.

The Pikers have also strengthened their team materially since the encounter at Columbia. The club presented medals to J. B. Curran Sr., A. N. Sutherland and Cyrus Tuttle for their part in rescuing Donald Mana, a caddy, from the laagoon in Forest Park, Jan. 3. A memorial will be sent to the family of A. G. Block of Chicago, who died of pneumonia shortly after aiding in the rescue.

Billikens Go to Kansas City. Coach O'Rourke will journey to Kansas City today in charge of the St. Louis University basketball squad, which is scheduled to meet the undefeated Rockhurst College team Wednesday night. The Billikens bowed in defeat to the collegians when the two met here last month, by a 25-20 score. It was in this contest that Carl Weber, the star Billikens player, was injured in a collision with Center Williams of the Kansas City quintet.

Weber is still on the hospital list, still bothering the staff and he is unable to move rapidly on the floor. O'Rourke will be accompanied by Steele, Collin, Kelly, Egler, Drace and Levine.

Henry Hurd, the former Washington star, is working out with Coach McGinley's freshman five. Hurd will enter the Billiken medical school next year and is at present taking a pre-med course.

St. L. U. High Regulars Recover. The St. Louis U. High School quintet will play the Collinsville High School team at Collinsville, Mo., today. The East Side players have been a thorn in the side of Savage's prep champs, and during the last meeting of the teams were leading the locals at the end of the first half and forced the Blue and White to extend themselves to the limit to stave off defeat, and corral a 29-23 victory.

Coach Savage stated that he would have his full strength of players for the contest. William "Red" Bradburn has recovered from an ankle injury he received three weeks ago and Capt. Stanton, who was suffering from pneumonia, has now fully recovered.

The date with Central High School, originally scheduled for Feb. 14, has been advanced to next week, the indefinite date as yet being undecided.

Central Draws a "Bye." Coach "Frank" Callan of the league-leading Central quintet, will have a busy time for the next 10 days. Central draws the bye in the Intercollegiate League Saturday night, but the coach has booked games with Country Day School for today, and with the St. Louis U. High for the early part of next week. Intense practice sessions will be held nightly for the Red and Black basketball in order to outclass the "City Robert" boys in the best possible shape for the contest with Cleveland High on Feb. 25. It is the belief of Coach Callan that the school devotes that the South Side charges of Coach Bert Penney will easily dispose of McKinley next Saturday night and enter the stretch but one game behind Central. A victory over Central would cause the Red and Black to lead the league and necessitate a post-season play-off for the championship.

Since the loss of Harry Heberger, Central stock has dropped considerably.

He caught the first man on the sixth lap, and taking the lead from Arthur Cascott, Glencoe Athletic Club, on the last lap. The Illinois star broke the tape six yards in front of his nearest opponent. N.Y.A.C. Trainer Will Get Hoppe In Condition Here

Balkline Billiard Star to Undergo Special Preparation for Title Match.

Wille Hoppe, who will attempt to regain the world's 18.2 balkline championship from Jake Schaefer Jr. of Chicago, in a 1500-point match at Chicago, March 27, 28 and 29, will train at St. Louis for at least 10 days prior to the contest. This was the announcement made by Charles C. Peterson, who was home for a brief stay, after touring with Hoppe since the recent title journey in the Windy City.

Hoppe and Peterson were forced to abandon their tour at Cleveland because the former titleholder contracted a severe cold, which he was unable to get rid of. He departed for his home in New York, while Peterson came to St. Louis.

Peterson asserted that he had received the consent of Hoppe, and manager, R. B. Benjamin, to have the former title holder come here to get in condition for the match, after he had shown them that facilities here were just as good as at New York and that it was only a night's ride to the Windy City.

Trainer to Condition Wille. While Peterson will aid in conditioning the man who held the championship for 16 years in a balkline way, his physical condition will be overlooked. Weber, trainer of the New York A. C. and Fordham University teams, also will be busy in putting Hoppe in tip-top physical shape.

Peterson announced that in all probability Hoppe would remain in this city until two days before the contest with Schaefer.

Hoppe Makes Run Over 400. Peterson stated that the former champion was again playing sensational billiards and that he had been getting big runs in his exhibition matches. On one occasion he had a run of more than 400. The local fancy-shot expert also said that Hoppe was putting up a great exhibition at three-cushions. The eight have played some 400 points and for that time Hoppe has an average of better than one.

Peterson relates that the pair still drawing crowds.

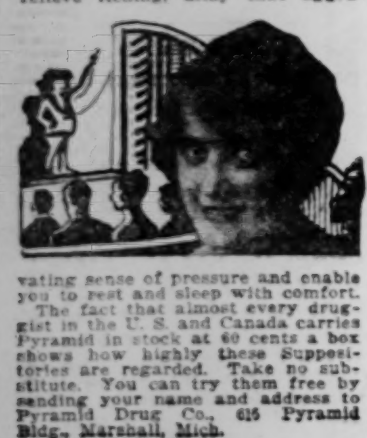

Hagenlacher Coming Here. Eric Hagenlacher, the German star, who is at present in this country, is a good balanced player, although not yet a finished product in the opinion of Peterson, who has seen him play. The St. Louisian asserted that when he first met Hagenlacher, the German was anxious to tie him (Peterson) to a contract for next year's season. Hagenlacher may be seen in action in this city later in the campaign.

APPLEBY BEATS FRENCH CUE AMATEUR IN FIRST INTERNATIONAL CONTEST. Special to the Post-Dispatch. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—Francis R. The final score was 369 points to 177. Appleby's average was 21.1-5s and his high run 76, 44 and 86.

WASHINGTON HOTEL LOOT PUT AT $19,000

Inventory After Holdup Shows 11 Guests Lost Jewels and Other Valuables.

A revised inventory today of the money and valuables taken by four robbers who took possession of the Washington Hotel office early yesterday morning, shows a total of almost exactly $19,000, figuring articles of jewelry at the value placed upon them by their owners, guests of the hotel, who had placed the articles in the safe deposit boxes in the hotel office.

The loss is covered by insurance in every case, so far as could be learned, except that of two diamonds owned by former Judge John A. Talty, and valued by him at $400.

Eleven boxes in the hotel's safe deposit system, 11 were in use by guests and six by the hotel, the other boxes being vacant, out of order or the keys having been carried away by departing guests.

The boxes used by the hotel contained $990 in cash, of which $750 was the hotel's regular checking fund; $100 belonged to Joseph Mo-han, clerk, and $140 had been deposited with the clerk by guests, the hotel being responsible to them for the money.

Mrs. William Sacks, wife of the chairman of the board of directors of the Republic National Bank, made the highest estimate of loss. She figured the value of her jewels at $1215, including one diamond-set brooch, $1250; one platinum diamond-ring set with three large gems, $4000; a diamond harp, $175; one harp set with rubies, $210; and another pin set with pearls and diamonds, $260.

Other losses reported. Mrs. Isabella Alice, mother of President Alice of the Board of Aldermen, estimated her loss at $4500, including a platinum diamond in valiere and a stick pin with a large pearl. William V. Studdiford of Jonesboro, Mo., reported the loss of $4500 Liberty Bonds, $54.50 oil stock, and a life insurance policy, which is not included in the estimate of loss. Carl Zerk, shirtwaist manufacturer, reported that his wife's diamond ring, valued at $550, and War Savings Stamps to the amount of $100, were taken. Judge Talty, as stated, reported a $100 loss, uninsured. Other guests who reported the loss of nothing valuable, or of replaceable papers only, were Firmin Deslogre, president of the Deslogre Consolidated Lead Co., Paul Sacks, real estate broker, and Barland Bricker, Jacob M. Werner, president of Werner & Werner, who had two boxes, is out of the city. Relatives may be carried insurance on his personal valuables, but they do not know what he had in the boxes.

"Out of Nowhere"

A NEW ROMANCE

By Ruby Ayres

CHAPTER V.
Olive Hale was to put it mildly, amazed when she heard that Violet had been taken on at Violet's with-out references.
If the truth must be told, she was a little displeased and considerably chagrined, even though she herself had suggested that Violet should apply for the berth—she spoke disparagingly of the whole concern and voiced the opinion that the consideration it improbable that Violet would be there for long.
"They are so very particular, you see," she said, eyeing her friend as she spoke. "One needs to be so excellently dressed, and—"
"Madame has sent me to her own dressmaker; they are making me a black crepe de chine—such a beautiful dress!" Violet imparted her news eagerly; she was excited and pleased, she hardly noticed Olive's half-heartedness. The two girls were sitting near the fire in Violet's room—the boy Ronnie lay asleep in Violet's bed—he had been fretting all day for his mother, he was worn out with sobbing.
Olive raised her dark brows—her mouth looked unfriendly; she began to think she had been rather a fool not to apply for that berth herself—Violet's was so infinitely better than that of the girl who had been dismissed; realizing this, Violet had refrained from speaking of Madame's emotions; however when she heard that Violet had once been employed there for a short time.
"Well," the elder girl said at length, rising and looking at herself critically in the glass. "You ought to be very grateful to me, that's all I can say; it was my idea entirely, and I only hope you'll keep it!" Her tones said clearly enough that she was quite sure Violet would not, but Violet only laughed.
"I mean to try, and I am eternally grateful to you; I've got something to work for now," she looked across at Ronnie with tender eyes.
Olive sniffed indignantly.
"What pleasure there can be in working for other people's brains, I don't know," she said disdainfully; she crossed the room and looked down at the boy quizzically. "He's got hair just like a man I used to know," she said irrelevantly. "And a thorough scamp he was, too." Her voice was hard.
Violet looked annoyed; she laid a protecting tender hand on Ronnie's head.
"He has beautiful hair," she said defensively.
Olive shrugged her shoulders.
"Oh, well! It's your affair; I'm not inquisitive; I only hope you're not undertaking anything you'll be sorry for. Where's his mother?"
Violet hesitated; then—
"His mother is dead," she said slowly.
"Oh! And his father?"
"I don't quite know. I—I think the father deserted them."
"Humph! Same old tale. What fools women are to get married!" Olive yawned. "I'm off to bed," she announced. She walked to the door; turned and looked back with a self-conscious laugh. "Mr. Green and I are going into the country tomorrow afternoon," she said with forced cheerfulness. "Saturday, you know; we're going to motor down; it's his brother's car."
"How lovely!" Olive was so stint of enthusiasm in Violet's voice; she really thought it would be lovely. She knew Mr. Green of the ribbon department quite well, and considered him insignificant and domineering, but she quite appreciated that it might be rather nice to go motoring into the country with him, even though the car were his brother's and that brother a butcher with a reputation for selling frozen meat at English prices; it was not Mr. Green that counted at all, but the car, for Violet had never been in a car in her life.
Olive smiled. "Yes, it will be rather nice," she agreed indifferently. "I shall wear my new hat with the cherry colored wing, and the mole cloth coat; I daresay we shall go quite a long way." Mr. Green suggested Chesham; have you ever been to Chesham? It's perfectly ravishing country."
"No," Violet's eyes were wistful. She had not been in the country for months and months, though sometimes at night she dreamed of windows that stood open to the woods and the sweet, pungent smell of new-mown hay.
Olive opened the door and yawned again.
"Oh, well, night-night. I'll bring you back some flowers," she walked out of the room.
Violet listened to the shutting of the door and the elder girl's slow steps up the stairs to the room above; then she turned suddenly, opened the door and called her name softly.
"Olive."
"Well?"
Olive was at the top of the narrow stairs; she had already pulled the cheap combs from her hair and unfasted her blouse at the throat; they had been stock-taking at Gattwick's and she really was very tired. Violet ran up the stairs to her.
"I wonder if you would mind posting a letter for me tomorrow?—not in London, but in the country, when you get to Chesham."
Her face was a little flushed; her voice nervous.
Olive laughed.
"Is it a billet doux?"
"No, of course not, but I—I don't want it to be postmarked London, that's all; it's just an answer to an advertisement."
"All right, give it to me."
Violet drew an envelope from her dress, but she still clung to it all most nervously.
"Promise me you won't post it till you get right away; right down to Chesham."
"Bless the girl," Olive snatched the letter playfully. "Of course, I won't; what a little fidget you are." She glanced at the address on the envelope; it was simply, "Box 32," at the office of an evening paper.
She went on her way up the narrow stairs.
"What a fuss about nothing," she said, yawning. "Remind me again in the morning or I daresay I shall forget and leave it behind."
"I shall be sure to remind you," said Violet. But, had she known it, there was not the least occasion. Olive Hale was one of those women who never forget anything; she had an excellent memory; she could recall a face she had seen in a bus or train years afterward; remember a name she had heard casually spoken; she found that it paid her well to make a storehouse of her brain.
When she reached her own room she shut and locked the door; took off her blouse, which was real lace, and had cost two weeks' salary, and sat down on the edge of the bed.
She still held the letter in one hand, with the other she pushed aside a heap of ribbons and feathers and odds and ends that littered the

Fashion News Notes

NEW YORK.—It always seemed a pity that florists did not take up the dandelion in a serious way, making it into the lovely garden flower which it deserves to be. But what the florists have neglected the fashion makers have adopted, and adopted with an enthusiasm which makes up for former slights. Along Fifth avenue the shop windows are glowing with the strong yellow shade known this spring as dandelion. It is seen in cotton crepe sport skirts, in jersey gowns, in sweaters, in parasols, in silks, chiffons and satins. There are hats of it, big and small, in straw and satin knit silk with a softly curling plume of the same shade or a knot of flowers. One wide satin hat shown is trimmed with a little pyramid of flowers at the front of the crown and among the yellow blossoms were just two in dark red which set off the rest. There were white sport gloves, too, studded with dandelion silk.

LONDON.—Among the prettiest of the spring frocks is the flowered organdie. A little knot of flowers embroidered near the shoulder and three other little knots scattered over the slightly bouffant skirt compose the chief decoration for one model. Another gown has side panels sprinkled with tiny embroidered flowers in many vivid hues. A tawny sand organdie has large copper tinted satin roses here and there on the skirt and a giraffe of them at the rather low waist line. There are organdie hats, not in matching, but in contrasting shades, to go with these delectable frocks. For the gown with the copper roses there was a crisp parasol of French blue with sand and copper roses about its edge.

PARIS.—Brocade satin coats to be worn with a satin or cloth skirt are a spring-time mode. Usually of black brocade in silver or copper, the coats are semitight and designed for tailor-made costumes. Not all the coats are black, nor all the brocade metallic, but the smarter of them have a somber background and the cloth or satin skirts must be in a plain color matching the brocade. The brocade coat is also a spring favorite.

NEW YORK.—Throw away our sliver gown or keep it for informal morning wear. The truly smart frock, even for evening functions, is about to be of cotton. Not ordinary cotton, mind you, but cotton made so fine and printed with such a bewitching beauty of patterns that it can hardly be distinguished from genuine. Embroidery also rushes to aid the erstwhile humble cotton in making itself look like what it isn't. It is the music of civilization, disorder, death. Upon people whose character is not built upon a firm foundation, such music must have a most deleterious effect. This sound sense of expectancy that it will end, but it does not end. It repeats, repeats, repeats. People who are otherwise sensitive, intelligent, refined, feel a sense of revolt against the noise too long continued. In people of irregular lives, who follow their whims, whose impulses are largely of physical origin, such music arouses its due response.

But her curiosity was still unsatisfied; the few lines written there told her little more than she already knew.

In reply to advertisement in Thursday's Evening Gazette, writer will meet advertiser on Monday evening at 8 o'clock by the bookstall at Charing Cross station; writer will wear a bunch of violets and requests advertiser to do the same.

Olive's dark brows frowned as she read the guarded words—what on earth could Violet be up to? And Charing Cross, of all places! Why, it was miles and miles away from the dingy street where Mrs. Higgs ordered the lives of the inhabitants of No. 12, and Violet had asked her to post it at Chesham. What could be the meaning of it all?

She read the letter through again. Eight o'clock, of course, she had to choose a late hour, because on Monday she started at Violet's.

Olive was a shrewd woman. She could put two and two together a greater deal quicker than most people could, and she guessed at once that Violet was trying to hide her identity—to conceal her real address.

She took up the envelope and scrutinized it closely; then she stretched an arm toward a small table at the bedside which was strewn with books and papers and muddle.

From among the heap she sorted a newspaper—the previous night's "Evening Gazette," she found the advertisement; ran a finger down the column till she reached the paragraph with the flaring headline:

50 REWARD.
"The above reward will be paid to any person giving information concerning the whereabouts of a child belonging to a woman who was run over and killed in M— street last night between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock by private motor car. The child— is 3 years of age and known as 'Ronnie.' Please communicate Box 32, office of this paper."

Olive read the advertisement through carefully; no word of it missed her eager eyes; then she got the paper slip to this floor by the bedside; she sat up, leaning on her elbow, an excited sparkle in her dark eyes.

"Fifty pounds reward!" she said softly. "So that explains the boy, does it?"

Condemnation and Praise for Jazz Music

Archbishop, Minister, Recreation Commissioner and Dancing Teachers Among Those Who Express Opinions.

By MARGUERITE MARTY.

PROPOS the discussion of jazz music, so-called, printed on this page Saturday, a discussion prompted by a play built around the theme of jazz, which opened recently at a New York theater, the Post-Dispatch invites its readers to write, addressing their communications to the "Jazz Editor," any opinions they may have upon this type of music of the day.

In the play, which is called "The National Anthem," the audience is made to feel that jazz is responsible for many regrettable tendencies of youth and modern society.

In order to continue the discussion today, 11 persons who might be interested in the subject from ethical or artistic standpoints have been asked for statements on the subject. Among those interviewed, as will be seen, opinion, thus far, is about equally divided on the merits of the case since certain ones half approve and half disapprove of jazz.

Archbishop Glennon, who often preaches on the tendencies and tastes of modern society, said: "We have been told that music had an influence upon behavior. Tolstoy in his 'Kreutzer Sonata' utilized this theme. Shakespeare said 'Music hath power to soothe the savage, etc.' Notwithstanding these authors, take words away from music and to me, its appeal is greatly diminished. Moore's melodies make an appeal to the heart which possibly they would not do without the words of the songs."

"However, to consider this type of modern music: It is not necessarily without melody, but necessarily without rhythm. It is the expression of the feeling of the moment, and it is the feeling of the moment that makes it the usual effect of music? It is perhaps the fast time, the emphasis, the repetition, the insistence, the seeming desire of each instrument to outstrip the other in sound. It produces in me only a sense of irritation. I want it to end, and I have a sense of expectancy that it will end, but it does not end. It repeats, repeats, repeats. People who are otherwise sensitive, intelligent, refined, feel a sense of revolt against the noise too long continued. In people of irregular lives, who follow their whims, whose impulses are largely of physical origin, such music arouses its due response."

In this event the purpose of providing needed recreation and diversion under proper supervision would be defeated. We do not look with favor upon jazz music nor upon other accompanying tendencies of the day, but it is perhaps better to exercise control than to prohibit. Given liberty and guidance young people come to judge these matters for themselves. A year ago we were much concerned with a style of dancing that wasn't dancing, but gyrations wherein the steps covered very small distances over the floor. This winter it is gratifying to observe that the dances are covering a great deal more space. Movements are freer. Steps are longer and not so jerky. Possibly this is due to music already becoming more slowly measured.

Dancing Teachers' View.
Jacob Mahler, dean of dancing teachers and a conservative who always has opposed the eccentric and grotesque features in the modern dances: "Do away with jazz and you will do away with the objectionable dances. I employ syncopated music in my ballroom, of course, but never any hardware. The drums and the saxophones are made to keep their proper places in the orchestra."

"It is the music which suggests the dance. Let it be the music of the savages and primitive instincts are aroused in the dancers and civilization for the moment forgotten. You do not hear savage music in my ball room and you do not see that kind of dancing. Many trapezes receiving their first inception in these public dance halls, which the Associated Dancing Teachers' are now trying to have regulated, were given their first impetus by the music played there."

Rodolphe Abeken, Commissioner of Recreation for the city, offered the most concrete example and graphic description of the effect of jazz as he has observed it: "At the Grand Avenue Municipal Community Center one night in company with some visitors from the Ministerial Alliance, we tried an experiment. We had the orchestra play a dance number without the usual emphasis on the syncopation, without the accents, the continuous beating of the drums and the expression of the music as he has observed it: 'At the Grand Avenue Municipal Community Center one night in company with some visitors from the Ministerial Alliance, we tried an experiment. Miss Mary Denman Clarke, one of the season's most popular debuts, I do think, though she has been overdone. People who notice a dancer in jazz tempo. I think anything action toward the more modest and recreation is good. Some cided influence upon the dance has too much recreation and amusement but most people, I think, have too little. Of course anything good can be perverted and made bad, but we can't abolish books because some of them have a bad influence on some people and we can't abolish moving pictures because some of them have a bad influence. "I don't see any signs anywhere that the popularity of jazz is waning or that waltz music is coming to take its place, though I wouldn't mind seeing some of the old dances come back. I think they are pretty and quaint."

The Heart of a Girl

A Story of Romance and a Business Career in St. Louis
By Caroline Crawford

CHAPTER 62.
A Skate With Billy and New Prospects.

Peggy had resigned her position she walked down Olive street leisurely. She was not depressed at having to give up her position, despite the fact that so many girls were out of work. She had a bank account of $200, she lived at home and then there were her affairs de coeur.

Could any girl who had the dearest love letters in the world from Harrison Townley in her bag, a new friendship with Jack Reed, a most talkative and witty young man and who was going skating that night, be very depressed over losing $15.50 per week?

The cool, crisp air, the almost deserted streets at this time of day and the tall buildings, all suggestive of the hustle and bustle of city life, inspired her. Of course, she had done the right thing in resigning. There was no question about that in her mind. She would tell Billy Branton, she would tell her parents, and what capital material it would make for a letter to Townley!

Her active mind began to work upon this letter now. She would sketch the thing just as it occurred. How she sailed in that morning, and the moment the boss' wife saw her she became furiously jealous. How the woman said she wouldn't have a bobbed-haired girl work for her husband, that if a girl wore flat-heeled shoes and bone glasses it might be different; but when a girl wore a silk dress to business and Louis XIV heels she was a chorus girl and not a typist.

"What shall I do?" she fancied herself writing to Townley, "go home and don flat heels and bone glasses, or would you ever speak to me again if I did?"

Peggy slipped into a telephone booth and reached Billy on the wire. "I won't be able to lunch with you, old fire box," she said. "I'll tell you all about it on the rink tonight. No, don't ask me now. It is a very long story. See you at eight."

"You did just the right thing," said Peggy's father that night. "I am proud of you. Always resign when there is a jealous wife or when your employer who is married asks you out to lunch. Atta girl."

After Billy had buckled Peggy's skating shoes for her, he swung her about and they took three spins around the rink before he said: "Now, fire away, what did you have to tell me this evening?"

Peggy laughingly related the whole story of the morning's escapade. As time drew the whole thing became funnier and funnier to her. She laughed so that finally Billy had to lead her over to an old log, where she finished her descriptions in a calmer mood with less risk of breaking their necks.

"Do I look like a vamp with my hair bobbed, Billy?" she asked. "If you had been the wife of the boss would you have been jealous of me?"

"I sure would," agreed Billy. "I wouldn't have a pretty little rascal like you around for a moment, not even if you wore flat heels and bone glasses."

"Oh, I wasn't fishing for a compliment," pouted Peggy.

"You don't have to," agreed Billy, and then as he became serious he added: "Say, I have a capital idea. I heard my boss talking about hiring an extra typist just yesterday. I'll tell him I just happen to know of one."

"And we won't let on we know each other," pointed out Peggy.

"That's right—that might spoil things. We'll assume a mere 'speaking acquaintance.'"

And with that they jumped to their feet and sailed around the rink.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 36—Vanishing Coin From Hands.

REST the left elbow on the table and hold a coin between the right thumb and forefinger. Ask someone to place their hand over the coin, as you start to set it down on the table. As they comply with this request, quickly draw the coin away and say, "No! Your other hand." As they advance the other hand, startled by your sudden request, deliberately throw the coin down the left sleeve and immediately put the right hand on the table as though it still held the coin. When they start to take the coin from your hand it has gone. Copyright by Public Ledger Co.

How to Use Bananas

By Emilie Hoffman

THE banana has been a much maligned fruit and up to a few years ago did not appear on the menus of people who thought they knew. This is all changed now. We have been convinced that the banana is not indigestible, as we had always supposed, but is easily digested and really has laxative properties. In Southern climates even babies eat bananas and thrive on them, but Southern folks never eat a banana unless it is absolutely ripe, and herein lies the cause of all the prejudice against bananas.

We select this fruit by appearance rather than quality. Those fine looking, clear, yellow bananas that we usually buy are unfit to eat unless cooked. A ripe banana has a brown skin and the pulp is white and mealy. These are sweeter, too, because much of the starch is converted into sugar during the ripening process.

Another reason for the bad reputation the banana has attained is due to the fact that we eat the banana too rapidly. It should be eaten slowly and thoroughly masticated. And the third reason is that we do not peel this fruit properly. Those long white strings that cover the pulp are decidedly indigestible and should be removed.

Bananas are especially nutritious and readily digested is served with milk. This greatly misunderstood banana can be used in many ways. It can be served either raw or cooked and as a fruit, salad or vegetable course. In combination with other foods it makes a variety of delicious dishes.

As a Vegetable. Peel, scrape and cut bananas into crosswise and put into frying pan, alternating with sausage. Cook slowly on top of stove or put into oven, bake occasionally until bananas are done. They should be slightly browned.

As a Dessert. Dice bananas, oranges and pineapple—the canned variety will do—sweeten to taste, cover with whipped cream and over this sprinkle grated coconut and put a maraschino cherry in center. Serve very cold.

Peter Gets His Wish

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Never make a wish you'll rue.
For wishes sometimes do come true.

—Peter Rabbit

As Peter Rabbit sat on the top of Jerry Muskrat's house pitying Jerry as he tried to imagine what it must be like to have to spend the winter as Jerry did he happened to look over to the place where the Laughing Brook enters the Smiling Pool. Just there was a little open place where the water had not frozen. It looked black and cold, did that water.

Suddenly Peter blinked. He blinked again and rubbed his eyes. It certainly looked to him as if a brown head had appeared in the middle of that water. Yes, sir, there was something there that looked for all the world like a brown head, and it was moving. Peter sat up and stared. Straight over to one side of that open place moved that brown head and then a stout brown-coated little person climbed out on the ice.

"Jerry Muskrat!" exclaimed Peter under his breath, as if he couldn't believe it. "Jerry Muskrat himself!"

With a bound Peter was down from the roof of Jerry's house and scampering across the snow-covered ice toward Jerry. Jerry was back to him and seemed to be busy about something, what Peter couldn't imagine. As Peter drew near Jerry heard the soft patter of his feet and turned quickly to see who might be coming. A look of relief crossed his face.

"Hello, Peter!" he cried. "It is a long time since I've seen you. How are you and Mrs. Peter standing the winter?"

"Hello yourself, Jerry Muskrat!" cried Peter. "You are the last person I expected to see. I was sitting up there on the roof of your house wondering where you were and how you were getting on. I could hardly believe my eyes when I saw you climb out on the ice. My, hasn't this been a hard winter?"

"Has it?" asked Jerry. "Has it?" repeated Peter in a tone that showed that he was a little provoked. "Has it? Don't you know that it has?"

"No," replied Jerry. "It has seemed no different to me from most winters. There has been nothing hard about it to me. What has made it so hard?"

Peter stared very hard at Jerry. He suspected Jerry of joking. But Jerry's face was sober and it was quite plain that he was in earnest.

"Where were you during and after the great ice storm?" demanded Peter.

"Has there been a great ice storm?" asked Jerry innocently. "Now you speak of it, I do remember that for several days the bushes and young trees over yonder were covered with ice, but I didn't think anything of it at the time! Was it such a bad storm?"

"Listen to him!" cried Peter. "Just listen to him! Was it a bad storm? It was the worst storm I've ever known, and I've seen a few bad storms in my days. It is a wonder that there is anybody alive around here. It is so."

"My, it must have been bad," said Jerry. "And to think I didn't know it! But why is it a wonder that there is anybody alive around here? Couldn't everybody get under cover until the storm was over?"

"Certainly. Of course!" replied Peter impatiently. "The real trouble came after the storm was over. I guess if it hadn't been for Farmer Brown's boy most of us would have starved to death. Yes, sir, that is what I guess."

"Why?" asked Jerry innocently. "Because everything was covered with ice, that's why!" retorted Peter. "No one could get through it to get so much as a bite."

"How dreadful!" exclaimed Jerry. "I pity you folks who have to live on land all the time."

HISTORY IN THE UNMAKING.

THERE used to be a character in George Creel's town in Missouri, a transplanted Kentuckian, a self-appointed Colonel and a veteran of Shelby's command, who was a born orator and an inspired romancer.

One sunny afternoon he was holding forth to an attentive and sympathetic audience upon the part he had played in the war between the states. It was rather to be inferred that he was one of the main reasons why the Confederacy endured, against odds, for four years. He progressed to where he was enriching history with an account of the first engagement in which he had participated.

"Gentlemen," he proclaimed, "envisage the scene. There we stand, a little group, armed for the most part with nondescript weapons, with flintlock muskets, with scythes, with axes, even with cudgels. We were underfed, half-shod and ragged, yet inspired by the dauntless resolution and splendid valor which sustained the Southern heart. Over the slope and straight against our line came pouring the Northern hordes, those relentless invaders of our beloved Southland, lusty and strong and equipped with every appliance for conducting warfare that modern science can provide.

"We are outnumbered three to one; we are weak from hunger, while they are lusty with bacon and beef. But none among us quails. A righteous belief in our sacred cause inspires us, every one. Each one feels himself a giant. And what is the result? Suddenly we leap forward in the charge. We grapple with them, we fight them, we fight like demons. And, gentlemen, such is the impetuosity of our attack, such the ferocity of our blows, that soon the blue lines break and in mad disorder the routed enemy flees, unable to face that irresistible torrent of Southern manhood."

From the audience spoke up a gray-bearded listener.

"Say, looky here, Kurnel," he said. "I was in that there fight myself and what really happened was that them plegged Yanks give us a fast rate lickin' and run us 10 miles across country."

With a magnificent gesture of surrender the Colonel rose to his feet. "Gentlemen," he said, "another instance of a good story spoiled by a damn eyewitness."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE CHEER UP MAN.

You waken in the grip of flu
Your pulses throb and jerk;
Your funds are low; your rent is due
You can't get down to work.
A headache makes you want to yell,
Your tongue is white and furry.
A friend drops in and says "Well! Well!
It will not do to worry!"

You slip and break your collar bone
And bruise your blessed head,
And think with a despairing moan
Of six long weeks in bed.
Your friend comes up, and says "Old scout,
No virtue in repining;
Although you're down you're never out;
So seek the silver lining."

The girl you thought was fond and true
(Such incidents occur)
Decides that she can't marry you And weds her dad's chauffeur.
Your friend observes "Cheer up, old chap,
No cause at all for sorrow;
It all is for the best, mayhap;
So better luck tomorrow."

As long as his luck isn't bad
And he is safe and sound,
His friends can count upon this lad
To scatter sunbeams 'round.
His optimism is sublime;
The noblest instance fill him;
In spite of which, you mean some time
He takes an axe and kill him.

EAST ALTON BANK
ROBBED OF $2000
BY THREE MEN

Trio Force Cashier and Assistant to Lie on Floor While They Gather Up Money From Cages.

ESCAPE IN RED HUDSON TOURING CAR

Holdup Is Second at Institution Within Three Months—$7600 Taken by Six Men on Nov. 13.

The Illinois State Bank of East Alton, Ill., was robbed of about $2000 by three armed men, accompanied by a chauffeur, at 10 o'clock this morning. This was the second time in three months that this bank was robbed, six robbers having obtained $7600 there on Nov. 13 last.

Also this is the second bank in the St. Louis district to have been robbed twice within a few months, recently. The Pine Lawn Bank, 6149 Natural Bridge road, was robbed of $2500 by three men, Jan. 25, and of $662 by three men, Sept. 21 last. In all four instances the robbers escaped in automobiles.

H. V. Green, cashier of the Illinois State Bank, described today's robbery to the Post-Dispatch over the telephone.

"My assistant, Warren Lorton, and I were inside the wire cage at 10 o'clock this morning," he said, "and no one else was in the bank. Three men came in and said, 'Stick 'em up,' so we threw up our hands. They didn't ask us to open the cage door, but picked up a little board that happened to be on the floor and broke open the cage door. They made us lie on the floor and said they would kill us if we turned to look at them. I don't think they wore masks."

Took About $2000 in Bills.

"All the money in the bank was about $2000 in bills; this was in a cash drawer in the cage. They took this. The safe was open, but there was no money in it. The robbers didn't hurt us. They were here only about three minutes. They told us to lie on the floor for five minutes after they left, but we got right up afterward and began telephoning the police of the surrounding towns."

A good many persons outside saw the machine, which was a red Hudson touring car, with one man sitting at the wheel. They didn't think anything of it, not seeing what was going on inside. The front windows are not very large. The bank is on the principal business street of the town. The machine drove away from the road to Wood River, the people outside said. The bank is fully protected by insurance."

Unable to Describe Robbers.

Cashier Green said he could not describe the three robbers who came in the bank and did not see their chauffeur. He was of the opinion that they were not of the party of robbers who last November entered the place noisily and in the presence of a number of citizens. Five masked men on that occasion made Green and Lorton lie on the floor and one of them tore the telephone loose and tied Lorton's hands with the wire. They took $1000 from the teller's counter and $1600 from the safe, which was open. They were in the bank only three or four minutes. Their machine was seen to "drive south toward Wood River."

Two men attempted to hold up the Illinois State Bank Sept. 2, 1919, but were frightened away at the point of a revolver by the man who was cashier then. The bank is controlled by the Western Cartridge Co. and the Equitable Powder Co. East Alton concerns John M. Olin, treasurer of both these companies, is president of the bank.
